Two Ways of Doing It
Pray, and Pray Quick
Only One Woman's Record Surprising the British

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL wants permission to increase commutation fares 40 per cent. And conditions may justify increase.

But there are various ways of meeting transportation problems, and one is to use your brain and adopt new methods. Railroads have not done that. They have been handicapped by a stupid law that forbids combining for efficiency and economy, but the main fact is that they have been contented with the results of meaningless directors' meetings, instead of thinking and changing.

A few years ago, in Detroit, a man without a dollar was tinkering at a queer little gas wagon steered with a stick.

Ford was laughed at, just as you would be laughed at if you took a new idea to a railroad directors' meeting.

But today, with his queer wagons, Henry Ford transports more passengers, more miles, every day, than are carried by all the railroads of the United States with all their thousands of millions of investments, and Ford did that by using his brain.

Why don't big railroads try that method? They have brains or can hire them. They have rights of way without speed limit or obstruction.

Why don't they utilize the smaller unit of transportation, the lighter engine, the no-stop before destination plan, with 100 miles an hour speed?

Why in Heaven's name DON'T THEY TRY SOMETHING? The little automobile has destroyed passenger traffic, why not get it back?

They remind you of a female turtle turned over on her back as she comes down from laying her eggs. She thinks she has explained everything when she says "they turned me over."

Another one of ten thousand tragedies in prohibition and bootlegging.

John Bugelo, driving his car, with his country cousin Joseph Dentice beside him, thought he was bound for a good time at Coney Island, and picked up two friends on the way. When they reached the Church of Our Lady of Precious Blood, in Brooklyn, one of the men on the back seat said: "HERE'S A CHURCH. PRAY, AND PRAY QUICK."

Bugelo and Dentice jumped. Dentice escaped with a bullet in his jaw. Bugelo crumpled up dead with bullets and slugs in his body. The police say Bugelo was "active in the grape racket."

Joe Aiello, executed by gangland last week, with machine gun fire coming from three groups of concealed murderers, could not complain of his funeral. He lies in Mt. Carmel cemetery, in a coffin that cost $13,800. And we talk about "ancient days of barbarism."

Miss Alicia Patterson, fearless young girl whose father, Joseph Medill Patterson, had a machine gun command in the big war, thought she would like to do something on her own account, and broke the woman's record flying from Philadelphia to New York in 40 minutes. She deserves credit, but there is one world's record for women compared with which all others are unimportant.

A girl, born long ago in Thrace, now called Bulgaria, had written on her tombstone:

I am not of the noble Grecian race,
I am poor Abrotonon and born in Thrace.
Let Grecian women scorn me, if they please,
I was the mother of Themistocleus.

Those lines will live longer in history than if she had written: "I am Abrotonon who ran barefoot from Thrace to Athens and back in 24 hours, then swam the Hellespont eight times, breaking the woman's record in each case."

The real records for women are held by Nancy Hanks, mother of Lincoln; Olympias, mother of Alexander the Great; Bertha of the big feet, mother of Charlemagne, the wife of a humble French tanner; mother of the great Pasteur, and other MOTHERS.

Britishers make it a point not to tell all they feel. But if they bought French bonds to help their good ally France when the war began, it would be plenty if they only told part of what they feel now.

France will pay Britons that bought French bonds with francs of the present value. Francs that the British bought with good pounds sterling were sold to them at 20 cents apiece. They will be bought back at something less than four cents each, causing a loss to British bond buyers of $120,000,000.

4 SHOTS FIRED IN RUM SHIP CAPTURE

Coast Guard Takes Boat Off Block Island With 800 Sacks of Liquor

New London, Ct., Oct. 31 (AP)—The speedboat Pueblos of Bridgeport, which was captured last week at the same time the speedboat Helen of Newport was fired on and beached by Coast Guardsmen near Napatree Point, was again seized early today by a Coast Guard patrol boat. She was laden with an estimated liquor cargo of 800 sacks.

Comdr. M. J. Ryan, executive officer of destroyer Semmes, was in charge during the absence of Capt. H. H. Wolf, of the Pueblos and her crew of 16. Men were captured in a line between Montauk Point and the southeast point of Block Island, while evidently attempting to effect an entry from the Atlantic into Block Island Sound.

FOUR SHOTS FIRED

No resistance was offered. The commander declined to reveal the name of the service craft which made the capture, saying such information might reveal the Coast Guard's scheme of operations.

The Pueblos, a 67 footer, of recent construction, powered by two large engines and equipped with collapsible mast to enable her to pass under low bridges, was sighted moving in from the ocean waters by the patrol boat, which fired a blank shell from a one-pound gun and then sent three shots across the Pueblos' bow. The speedboat hove to and was brought here.

The names of the crew were not listed, but is was said some of them were recognized as men who have served aboard other boats which have been under the surveillance of the Coast Guard.

The Pueblos, its cargo and crew will be taken to Providence this night where tomorrow the men will be arraigned and the vessel and cargo surrendered to the customs authorities.

RELEASED LAST WEEK

Following the capture last week, the Pueblos was released after she had been brought here. Officials at first inclined to the belief that she was an escort for the Helen, but later announced they had no information connecting the two craft.

The Helen, with 1000 sacks of liquor aboard, was beached after a spirited battle with service boats. Her liquor was salvaged and her crew taken to Providence, but efforts to refloat the boat have failed.

Bulgarian Police Round Up the Soviets After Assassin Fires; Royal Pair Rewed

Berlin, Oct. 31 (INS)—"Several hundred persons," including a great many alleged Soviet agents, were arrested today in a country-wide roundup of suspected radicals in Bulgaria as the result of shots fired at King Boris' honeymoon train at Mandole, according to Central European radio reports from Sofia.

The Bulgarian government issued an official denial that the royal train had been fired upon. But the extraordinary activity of police in rounding up Communists and suspected Soviet agents proved to many reports of the shooting.

News of the shooting caused intense excitement in Sofia, which had just accorded an unprecedented reception and demonstration of affection for King Boris and his bride, former Princess Giovanna.

COURT BOARD ENDS CHASE KILLING HEARING

Four in Tears as Defense Attorney Arraigns System Used in Service

Gloucester, Oct. 31—The court-martial of Chief Machinist's Mate Hugh D. Olmstead of the Coast Guard concluded on a dramatic note today with four in the courtroom moved to tears by his senior counsel, E. Mark Sullivan.

Olmstead, charged with culpable inefficiency in shooting to death Boatswain's Mate Lewis W. Pratt, in Ipswich Bay on the night of Aug. 4 last, broke down.

Tears streamed down the face of Capt. Herman Wolf of the courtmartial board; Mrs. Smith, the stenographer, sobbed audibly, and Atty. Sullivan's own eyes were wet.

ASKS ACQUITTAL

The weeping occurred as Atty. Sullivan pleaded for an honorable acquittal for his client, whom he characterized as an honest, courageous youth, carrying out instructions to the best of his ability on a job for which he had little experience and less preparation.

He severely ararigned the Coast Guard system and Commr. Eugene Coffin of the local base who said Olmstead out on the mission which resulted in the death of Pratt.

Commander C. C. Von Paulsen, the prosecutor, made no argument, but rested his case on the evidence.

TELLS OWN STORY

Olmstead previously had taken the stand and told the story of the events fo the night of August 4, declaring he acted according to instructions given him by Commander Coffin.

The board will convene tomorrow morning, at which time it is understood an acquittal will be announced if it is reached. Otherwise Olmstead's record will be read into the proceedings, and the board members will return to Washington.

Olmstead, testifying in his own defense, said he carried out the instructions of Commander Coffin who had assured him that if anyone was killed, "we will back you up."

He said the commander added that if there was a killing, "they (the trawlers) are to sea duty."

It was at his superior's command that Olmstead, most of whose experience had been in engine rooms, took out a patrol in a small outboard motor boat too small to mount a warning gun, and declared by experts to be unseaworthy.

Olmstead took the stand at the opening of court, and recounted his assignments in the five and a half years of his service.

The witness said he had no opportunity to study the craft in Ipswich Bay, as he had never done any inland water work. Chief Boatswain's mate Olsen had been in command of the Ipswich Bay patrol, but went on a leave of absence the night of Aug. 4.

GAS MENACES OKLAHOMA CITY

Oklahoma City, Oct. 31 (AP)—Flowing an estimated 60,000 or more barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, a wild gusher at the southeast doorstep of Oklahoma City threatened residence and business districts today. The fire hazard led to closing of schools breakfastless, fireless homes and traffic blockades. Chief danger of fire lay in great clouds of gas which clung to lowlands surrounding the well. As a light southeast wind sprayed business and residential districts with oil, rigid no-fire regulations were enforced

The well, No. 1 C. E. Stout of the Morgan Petroleum Co., is less than a mile from the heart of the downtown shopping district.

Incoming trains "doused" their fires as they entered the danger zone, coasting into stations.

Six schools were closed, giving 2230 pupils a vacation until Monday. State Fire Marshal C. R. O'Neal said pockets and clouds of gas would remain a hazard for days after the well as capped.

Adjt.-Gen. Charles F. Barrett today ordered out several units of the National Guard to assist civil authorities in policing the fire danger area.

SENIGALLIA HIT BY NEW QUAKE

Ancona, Italy, Oct. 31 (AP)—This region was shaken again today by an earthquake, 24 hours after the disaster which took a number of lives and did heavy property damage. The damage was slight, but residents of Senigallia were alarmed when chimneys and copings crashed down.

It appeared today that the total number of dead in yesterday's quake would approach 50, and the list chief at Senigallia stated there were 35 dead persons there and nearly 300 injured. In Ancona several persons seriously injured died during the night. It was expected that other casualties would be found in the villages lying around the two cities.

Senigallia has all the appearance of a war zone town. Carabineri and black-shirt Fascisti militia have surrounded it and are keeping out all persons except inhabitants and rescue workers.

Every street in Ancona and Senigallia was guarded by the black shirts and carabineri with fixed bayonets. Several shots were fired this morning at suspected looters. Residents and rescuers were given white arm bands to identify them.

'Baering' Some Thoughts on Politicians

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Before voting for your favorite politician find out whether he is running for office or dead storage.

Remember the jails are full of lads who were elected on the reform ticket.

And that the politician who tries to be all things to all men doesn't make a bad caddy for the head hooper.

A chameleon was fake any color but white. We'll take our candidates dry. Or we will take 'em wet. But we don't want them damp.

The Patron Saint of politicians is the Colossus of Rhodes which was one of the seven wonders of the world because it did the greatest straddling act in history.

Shaw says Einstein is the eighth wonder. Let's make it an even dozen so we can wonder 'our times why campaign promises evaporate so fast in transit.

All this early 1930 electioneering is the preamble to the big 1931 barbecue.

The Democrats will look much better then. They've had a nice, long beauty sleep.

SUSPICION OF FRAUD IS REASON

Failure to File Information After Two Demands Leads to Drastic Action

Securities of E. E. Gray Co., E. E. Gray Corp. and Gray Realty Co., Inc., all of which grew from a North End grocery store o. 45 years ago, today were ruled off the Massachusetts market by the State Department of Public Utilities.

E. E. Gray Co. is capitalized for $500,000 on issues of 37,384 shares of preferred stock and 12,747 shares of common stock, both at $10 par.

The realty company is listed as a $250,000 concern on 25,000 shares of preferred stock on the same par and 1500 shares of common stock at no par. The corporation lists no par stock of 200,000 shares preferred, 200,000 shares of class A common and 100,000 shares of common.

Alleged failure to file information on income was given as the reason for the ruling by John C. Hull, director of the securities division.

A file of correspondence at his office shows a letter of October 3 that was sent the firms, asking for an accounting through September 30 with a balance sheet bearing the certification of an authorized accountant. The letter was dated October 18 as the filing date. Then an extension was made to October 25, but the return was not made.

Last Tuesday, Director Hull made a finding of "prima facie evidence of fraud" and drew his order that ended "such securities shall not be sold or offered for sale in Massachusetts."

E. E. Gray, who started the business with an old-fashioned grocery store, is now 75 years old and makes his home in Commonwealth ave., Brighton.

Lowell A. Mayberry, counsel for the Gray companies, said the action is "a mere matter of form."

The companies are asked for a statement, but the auditors had not completed the work at the time it was required, he said.

witness testified Commander Cotten told him what words he gave Olmstead continue the pistol.

"What if we see a rummy?" Olmstead said he asked.

QUOTES COMMANDER

"Put your searchlight on the coast guard ensign, and fire a warning shot. If they fail to stop try to disable the boat by firing at the engine room or rudder," he quoted Commander Coffin as saying.

He said Coffin had told him to use his automatic pistol to fire the warning as the regulation one-pounder could not be mounted on the small boat. The machine gun was to be used to disable the rum-runner.

Olmstead said he asked:

"What if someone is killed?"

"We don't want any killing," Commander Coffin replied, according to the witness, "but we will have to back you up. They may transfer me to sea duty."

Olmstead said he went to the executive officer, Chief Boatswain Lorear Vingie, who told him to carry out the commander's instructions and pick a man to go with him.

"Money for All of Us," Mara Quotes Tunney

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Timothy Mara, politician, bookmaker and sportsman, opened the testimony today in his $500,000 breach of contract suit against Gene Tunney with the statement that the former heavyweight champion offered him 25 per cent of his share in the gate receipts and 25 per cent of his future earnings for Mara's help in arranging a match with Jack Dempsey in 1926.

"Tim, there is enough money in this proposition for all of us," Mara said Tunney told him. "If I am able to get the Dempsey match I will give you 25 per cent of my share of the gate and 25 per cent of what I make subsequently in pictures and other activities.

Mara said he told Tunney he was willing to take only 10 per cent of the purse, but if Gene won the title he wanted 25 per cent of his earnings from that time on and would give up his race track interests to work entirely for Tunney.

"I will give Billy Gibson, my manager, 25 per cent as I have no contract with him," Mara said Tunney answered. "And I will make up the difference from my own end to pay you."

Gibson also is mentioned as co-defendant in the suit.

Mara testified to the contents of letters and telegrams between himself and Tunney early in 1926. Mara said Tunney met the late Rickard in Fort Worth, Tex., shortly thereafter and signed a contract to fight Dempsey for the title.

Tunney sat at the table of his counsel, Emory Buckner.

Mara testified he kept cautioning Tunney against Rickard in the Fort Worth negotiations, insisting that the contract be in writing.

In one letter to Mara, offered in the testimony, Tunney described his work in Hollywood. He said he rose at 6 a. m., went to the studio at 10, and sometimes worked all night. Instead of going out to lunch he punched a light bag and skipped rope to keep his weight down.

"There is no chance of getting me to work another picture right away," the letter continued. "It is too tough for one of athletic aspirations."

The false statement escaped from the foreign language, and spread. And the Cabinet is said to think President Hoover should issue a prohibition statement now.

There is no need of it. The President is elected to enforce the laws, not to make them. He didn't invent prohibition.

The real prohibition statement will come at the polls next Tuesday. If it indicates that hard times and illeness have made the people impatient, the President may say what is necessary, basing it perhaps on the interesting advice that King Lemuel got from his mother, see Proverbs, Chapter XXXI, "What, my son, and what the son of my womb? And, what the son of my vows . . . it is not for kings to drink wine, nor for princes strong drink . . . give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish, and the wine unto those that be of heavy hearts. Let him drink and forget his poverty, and remember his misery no more."

BIG DEMOCRATIC VICTORY FETE ON SUNDAY

Democratic Women to Be the Hostesses at Copley-Plaza Event

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

A huge victory reception to Mrs. Joseph B. Ely and Mrs. Marcus A. Coolidge, wives of the Democratic candidates for Governor and U. S. Senator, will be given by the women of Massachusetts in the ballroom of the Copley Plaza Hotel Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ely and Mrs. Coolidge have hesitated to take any part in the campaign, but finally yielded to the reception plans on the insistence of the women workers of the party. They will make no speeches.

More than 5000 are expected to attend the reception. The big gathering will represent all the social, political and charitable groups in the State.

Speeches will be made by the candidates and by Senator Walsh, Mayor Curley, former Mayor Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Watson, Mrs. Ruth E. O'Keefe and Miss May Ward, State director of the women's organizations. Dr. Helen I. Doherty will preside.

NOTABLE GUEST LIST

Among the invited guests will be the Democratic mayors of Massachusetts and their wives, Chairman Frank J. Donahue of the State Committee and Mrs. Donahue, Miss Helen Coolidge, Miss Mary Curley, James Roosevelt, son of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, and the young men 'group comprising the Ely squad of speakers.

Ely, fresh from his triumphal tour of the western part of the state, will address big rallies tonight in more than a dozen communities surrounding Boston. The feature rally of the evening will be in Rockland where the meeting is sponsored by Winthrop Perry, a prominent Ely and life-long Republican.

At rallies in Northampton, Springfield, Easthampton, Holyoke, Chicopee and Westfield, where Ely appeared with Marcus A. Coolidge, the senatorial nominee, and other candidates, the Westfield man was given ovations by overflow crowds.

HOME TOWN WELCOME

The citizens of his home town turned out enmasse to do him honor. His neighbors and friends took the opportunity to "prove" the world that they were solidly behind "Joe" Ely.

The rally in Springfield was the largest Democratic affair of its kind ever held in that city. Ten thousand people packed the auditorium and several thousands more, unable to get in, listened to the addresses that came from the loud speakers.

Mayor Curley and Senator David I. Walsh were among the speakers who aroused the gatherings to heights of wild enthusiasm.

Ely charged Governor Allen with lack of leadership. He accused Allen of dodging the unemployment situation and of shifting the burden of responsibility to the cities and towns.

He scored the governor for his "failure to solve the Boston Elpublem," declaring that, although the responsibility had rested upon Mr. Allen for such a solution, he had done nothing.

PEOPLE MULCTED

"Some $50,000,000 have been taken from the people of Massachusetts through the sale of worthless securities, due in large measure to the improper administration of the 'Blue Sky' law," he told his audiences.

On the business depression issue, Mr. Ely said:

"The governor has been recreant in his duty to the people in the worst industrial crisis that Massachusetts has witnessed in our memory. He has failed to make a single constructive step for its relief. The failure of Massachusetts in this respect is conspicuous and flagrant."

Allen, he asserted, has been a "conventional" governor, "weak vacillating and neglectful."

The suggestion to open additional unemployment agencies throughout the State was ridiculed by he Democratic candidate. He said it would be just so many more places where citizens could be told there was no work for them.

For two years, he charged, the governor has been promising a solution of the compulsory automobile insurance law, something that hasn't materialized yet, he said.

3—No Catholic will be admitted to the sacraments so long as he is a registered member of Hitler's party.

Other Catholic bishops of Germany are expected to take a similar stand.

The bishop declared that the National Socialist creed preaches overestimation of the Germanic race and contempt for other races which, with some, has grown to race hatred and which is un-Christian and un-Catholic and that the party aim is the establishment of a German God a German Christianity and a German church under the slogan: "Against the Jews and Rome."

GIBSON SEEKS FRENCH-ITALY NAVAL PACT

American Ambassador Hears Tardieu's Views; Is Expected to Meet Mussolini

Paris, Oct. 31 (AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, who long has played a prominent part in international disarmament conferences, today was striving to bring France and Italy together on their naval disagreement.

Premier Tardieu has frankly explained to Ambassador Gibson France's position and Premier Mussolini was expected at Rome today to give the Italian side.

France, it was learned from official quarters, is ready to make concessions on the naval problem without, however, admitting the principle of parity, the rock upon which Franco-Italian negotiations has struck.

GIBSON'S MESSAGE.

If Ambassador Gibson carried any message to Premier Mussolini from Premier Tardieu it is believed here to be that France has no desire to isolate Italy and that, on the contrary, she hopes through a binding naval accord to establish friendly and helpful relations in all domains.

In official French quarters it generally was said the word "parity" appeared to have been unduly emphasized, particularly as France believes Italy would not see any necessity of building up to the size of the French fleet.

DISINTERESTED PARTY.

The hope expressed was that Ambassador Gibson would be able to examine the question from the standpoint of a disinterested onlooker and would be able to suggest some practical formula of bringing more closely together the two countries.

It was emphasized today as a hopeful sign that already at Geneva, France and Italy have reached an accord on submarines and destroyers. The point upon which the negotiations broke down was that of 10,000-ton cruisers.

The attitude of the United States was described here as being desirous of bringing France and Italy together.

DRY 'SPY' LISTS SENATE BUYERS

Washington, Oct. 31 (INS)—A federal prohibition agent, acting as an informer and undercover spy, was planted in the Senate office building here for three months during the last session and reported to his superiors on the purchase of bootleg liquor by occupants of the building, according to an article today in the Akron, O., Beacon-Journal.

Ultimately, the agent's activities resulted in the arrest and conviction of George L. Cassidy, so-called "Congressional Bootlegger," who was also known as "The Man in the Green Hat," after the seizure of his customers' book, containing names of purchasers.

The names have been withheld by the Prohibition Bureau and Department of Justice.

Prince Nicholas

Last February it was reported that secret negotiations were being conducted by Queen Marie, his mother, to bring about the engagement of the Rumanian prince and Princess Giovanna of Italy, who recently married King Boris of Bulgaria. The love affair between the errant young prince and the divorcee has survived the wrath which befell it when Queen Marie sought to bring it to an end.

Harry Antick, One of Defendants, Denies He Is Star, but Admits Dividend Story

Harry Antick, who refused to admit he was the best salesman of Page & Shaw stock, but volunteered the information to judge and jury that he was "not the worst," told today in Middlesex Superior Court how he sold $12,000 worth of stock to three Newburyport sisters.

Antick is one of 12 defendants on trial for alleged conspiracy to steal from various purchasers of the $7,000,000 worth of stock sold throughout New England.

The Newburyport women he referred to as Mrs. Currier, Mrs. Oberg and Mrs. Snelling, and he said each bought $4000 worth. The shares sold at $2 each.

INSPECTED PLANT.

"I made the sales to Mrs. Oberg and Mrs. Snelling, only after taking them to view the factory in Cambridge," he testified.

"I stayed overnight in Newburyport and this morning drove them in my car to see the place. It was the first time I had been there. The inspection lasted three hours.

"After that I drove to the Temple pl. branch of the Old Colony Trust Company, where Mrs. Snelling drew out some money, and then we went to Newburyport, where Mrs. Oberg got $4000 out of a bank. The sales were then completed."

Denying he was the "star salesman," Antick said he sold "only $25,000 worth." District Attorney Bushnell said that from figures in his possession the total appeared to be 32,000 shares sold by Antick. The defendant said that a sale of 10,000 shares to a Dr. Waters in Newburyport had been cancelled.

TOLD OF DIVIDEND.

Antick admitted telling Mrs. Maurice of Beverly that the company had paid 8 per cent dividends, explaining that the literature furnished him made that statement. He denied telling her that a certain wealthy Beverly man had bought $20,000 worth, as Mrs. Maurice testified.

He admitted also using the names of bankers in the cities and towns he visited to promote the sale of stock and denied saying that the Page & Shaw Co. wanted the poor to profit by the stock issue and did not want the wealthy to "gather in all the stock."

Harry Jaspon, 31, of Mattapan, another defendant salesman, who said he sold Mrs. Munroe $5000 worth of stock on November 4, 1929, denied advising her to mortgage her home so she could buy more.

Jaspon also denied telling her his mother had a chauffeur and was able to spend the winter in Florida because she bought Page & Shaw shares 17 years ago.

Harry Sternburg, who sold $6,000 worth of the stock, testified he always thought the company a good one, explaining:

"My folks used to buy me Page & Shaw candy when I was a baby."

MRS. RUTH DOROTHY HELEN RUTH JULIE HODGSON "BABE" RUTH

TWO LITTLE GIRLS, who have been calling "Babe" Ruth, Yankee home-run king, "Daddy" for many months, won a real right to use the name in court at New York yesterday when "Babe" adopted the two children. The girls are Dorothy Helen Ruth, ward of Ruth's first wife, and Julie Hodgson, daughter of Babe's present wife. The two children are shown with Mrs. Ruth as the "Babe" signs the adoption papers. SKIPPER SAILS ON LAST TRIP

The North German Lloyd liner Karlsruhe made her farewell sailing from Boston today, but not before Miss Eileen Sheehan, of Auburndale had cost the company $20 by being late.

Miss Sheehan, who is going to Galway, Ire., was 20 minutes into the arriving at Commonwealth Pier. And the dock fee is $20 for any hour or fraction of hour over 15 minutes beyond the scheduled sailing time. As the Auburndale girl's third class passage fare is only $85.50, the company is carrying her at a loss.

Not only was the sailing the last from Boston for the Karlsruhe, which will go on the Bremen Havana-Galveston run, but it was the start of his last run for Capt. Hellmuth Filsinger of the liner. Capt. Filsinger, who has been in service more than 50 years, is retiring at the end of the trip.

He received the best wishes of Christopher De Groot, New England manager of the line, and of a host of friends he made in Boston during the time he was taking his internment during the war.

The Karlsruhe will be replaced on the Boston run to Galway, Queenstown and Bremen by the new cabin ship Berlin in December.

5 IN GUN FIGHT ESCAPE JAIL

Cowardly witnesses of gang battles were denounced today in municipal court by Judge Michael J. Murray after he was forced to free five men charged with assault and battery on one another in a shooting affray in Norman st., West End, on August 29 last.

These men, all seriously wounded, refused to testify against one another, and police could find nobody who would admit seeing the shooting, although a large crowd of men, women and children witnessed it.

The defendants were Salvy Oterio of East Boston, Dominic Barbari of Green st., Charles Castelone of Cambridge st., Carmine Guffre of Norman st. and Albert Scalia of Medford.

Autoist Says He Had 'Shakes' Pays $100 for Zigzagging

Presenting a unique defense to a drunken driving charge, James Beagan, 47, of South Franklin st., Holbrook, told Judge Avery in Quincy court today:

"I get an attack of the shakes every time I see a traffic officer. That's what made my car zigzag."

Despite this explanation, Beagan was found guilty, fined $100 and paid. He was arrested in Randolph by Traffic Officer Carl MacCauley.

Bids Farewell to Boston

CAPT. FILSINGER CHRISTOPHER DE GROOT

A VETERAN OF the North German Lloyd Line, Capt. Hellmuth Filsinger, of the liner Karlsruhe, sailed out of Boston on his last trip today. He is being retired after 50 years in the line employ. The veteran skipper was well known in Boston, having been interned here during the war. Christopher De Groot, New England agent of the line, is shown bidding Capt. Filsinger goodby. (Staff photo.)

102 Get Odd Jobs, Hundreds in Line

(Have you an odd job to be done? Call the Municipal Employment Bureau, Liberty 8607, or mail the attached coupon to 25 Church st., Boston.)

Seventy-five men and 27 women and girls obtained employment yesterday at the Municipal Employment Bureau, 25 Church st., through the suggestion of the Boston Evening American that odd jobs, temporary work, if nothing better was available, be given to the needy.

Today Director John J. Shields hopes for offers of work from home owners and tenants.

Also he hopes that large business concerns, depressed with the distress of those out of work, whose plight is becoming more widely advertised every day, will give employment through his bureau of large numbers of trained workers of which he has hundreds registered.

ARENA HIRED 20

The men given jobs Thursday were 20 to do cleaning at the Boston Arena, five laborers, a garage cleaner, two for the Harvard Socialist Club, four carpenters, one truckman, several painters, a chauffeur, three truck helpers, two auto washers, two plumbers, two window washers and the rest for general work and miscellaneous jobs, chiefly at business places and factories in Boston and the suburbs.

Women and girls were employed as mailers, power machine stitchers for housework, mothers' helpers and cleaners.

Election Commission Chairman Peter Tague asked for 10 men to help in election work next Tuesday.

In a letter to Director Shields, another man asked for a woodchopper for next Tuesday and added: "Please call the man you send to vote first."

Somebody with a perverted sense of humor caused disappointment to 25 men who were sent to the Boston Garden in response to a telephone call purporting to come from Sheldon Fairbanks, director of the garden. Fairbanks is in Europe. Director Shields was indignant and has taken steps to trace the call and to prevent a recurrence.

NEARLY 1000 APPLY

There were several hundred on hand when the office opened yesterday and this number was increased to nearly 1,000 by eight o'clock.

Late calls, offering jobs which must be filled today, were for mothers' helpers, pipe coverers, a barber, Ludlow machine operator, tailor, press feeder, two plumbers and other tradesmen.

If you have work that may be done now—and especially those odd jobs of repair and other work around homes and buildings which you may have been putting off—call Liberty 8607, or mail the attached coupon, stating your wants.

M'DONALD IS UPHELD BY 156 TO 11

Laborite Left Wing Is Voted Down in New Session of Parliament

London, Oct. 31 (AP)—The MacDonald government scored an easy victory today in the first division of the new parliamentary session, defeating by 156 votes to 11 a Labor Left Wing amendment to the address replying to the speech from the throne.

The amendment "humbly regretted that the speech from the throne contained no proposals making for the Socialist reorganization of industry, agriculture, banking and import and export trades and for a more fair distribution of the national income."

The government's proposal to amend the Trade Disputes act and cut the working hours of miners from eight to seven and a half hours a day was defended by J. H. Clynes, home secretary, when debate continued today.

Had there been no lockout of miners there would have been no general strike in 1926, Clynes declared. If it was right for mine-owners to lock out a million men, how could it be wrong for two or three million men to lay down tools in sympathy with them? he inquired.

He expressed opinion that if ever again there was a general lockout to inflict a reduction of wages it would be difficult, "law or no law," to prevent sympathetic action by even larger bodies of men taking sides with their fellow workers.

Beaverbrook's Candidate Winner in Bye Election

London, Oct. 31 (AP)—Vice-Admiral E. A. Taylor, Empire crusader, backed by Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothmere, won the South Paddington bye-election today with a majority of 941 over Sir Herbert Lidlard, official Conservative.

"This is a great blow to opponents of empire free trade, and to those wobblers who while not opposing it are afraid to adopt it," Taylor said in commenting on his election.

But the dominant result was seen as the victory of the press magnates over the Conservative leader, Stanley Baldwin. When Baldwin was sustained yesterday, Lord Beaverbrook was the only man at the meeting who failed to approve the leader's fiscal policy.

2 AMERICANS IN DO-X CREW FOR ATLANTIC HOP

Huge German Twelve-Motored Plane Ready for First Leg of Flight Tomorrow

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Special Cable Dispatch)
(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Berlin, Oct. 31—Nine men, two of them Americans, have their suitcases packed at Altern on Lake Constance, for the takeoff Saturday of the huge flying ship DO-X, on a flight that may end at Lisbon or may land them at the foot of the Battery, New York city.

Everything seems ready for the first distance venture of the DO-X, pride of Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the first of a line of ships which, in a decade, may be speeding twice weekly across the Atlantic Ocean.

TO ALIGHT AT SEA.

Because the 12-motored ship weighs about 55 tons, technical aviation circles here and British aviation underwriters still raise the question of whether the DO-X has been sufficiently tried out in the air and on the sea to risk the long flight. They also question the safety of the landing planned for mid-Atlantic, where the DO-X will refuel, spends the night tossing on the waves, and take off the following day.

Lieut. Charles H. Schildhauer, formerly of the U. S. navy, and noted American pilot, will be one of the Americans to make the trip and Harvey Brewton, technical assistant and electrical engineer, will be the other American member of the crew. The two passengers, Lady Grace Drummond Hay and myself, will not board the DO-X until it reaches Amsterdam.

ALL CLEAR FOR START

Capt. Christian Christiansen, in a telephone talk with Berlin last night from the Dornier hangars at Altenrhein, said:

"The DO-X will be all clear to take off from Altenrhein for Amsterdam at dawn Saturday, if the weather and visibility are such that we can start.

"So far as is humanly possible, we have tried to foresee and anticipate every emergency. But as to the weather, well—the best that can be said is that sometimes the Atlantic is very smooth in November."

G. O. P. IN GREAT RALLY TONIGHT AT TEMPLE

The Republican party will make its major appeal tonight in Treasury Temple for its candidates in the election next Tuesday.

Under the auspices of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, a program of music and speeches will be presented. Col. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, former assistant attorney-general of the United States, will be the principal speaker.

Others to be heard will be Governor Allen, William M. Butler and Lieut.-Governor William S. Youngman. Henry J. Parkman, president of the club, will preside.

That no one yet comprehends the combination of causes which led to the "world-wide recession in trade" was contended by former President Calvin Coolidge in a speech delivered last night over the radio under the auspices of the Republican State committee.

Coolidge held that chronic revolution in China, economic chaos in Russia and grave disturbances in India, together with revolt in South America, have been responsible in part for this condition.

While admitting that present conditions of industry in Massachusetts are unsatisfactory, the former chief executive of the nation said that the readjustment which is taking place may be beneficial when it is completed but is difficult while in progress.

The speaker urged the re-election of Governor Allen and the sending to Washington of William M. Butler, the G. O. P. senatorial nominee.

THRONGS AWAIT VARGAS IN RIO

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 31 (INS)—Three thousand revolutionary troops, including Gauchos from the Brazilian hinterlands, gathered in Rio de Janeiro today to be on hand for the arrival of their leader, Dr. Getulio Vargas, generalissimo of the successful insurrection.

SURVIVOR TELLS OF R-100 CRASH

London, Oct. 31 (AP)—Engineer A. J. Cook, injured survivor of the R-101 disaster, today told a graphic picture of the ill-fated airship's last moments to a commission inquiring into the loss of the huge dirigible.

Cook told how the ship went into a steep dive and struck the ground with terrific force. A second crash came and then a mighty explosion which rent the great air liner from stem to stern and took 46 lives.

Cook said he first noticed something was wrong when the ship took a "slight dive" and the engines room rang for reduced speed.

"As I turned the engine to slow," he said, "the ship took a steep diving attitude. I took a quick look out of the window and as I did so the ship struck the ground. I stopped my engine instantly and a second crash came, followed by an explosion.

The only thing at all unusual he had observed during the night was while he lay in his bunk between 11 and 2, Cook said.

"I was quite close to the bottom of gas bags Nos. 8 and 9 and I noticed they were surging about rather more than I had noticed on other flights."

Injured Dog Dashes Straight to Surgeon in Hart Hospital

Dr. Allen T. Moulton, surgeon specialist of Beacon st., and Hart Hospital Roxbury, finished an operation today, emerged flushed with success and then found a most unusual patient awaiting him at the hospital.

It was a whimpering shepherd dog, victim of an automobile outside the hospital.

Crazed by pain, the canine dashed from Morland st., entered the hospital and stopped at the feet of Dr. Moulton when he stepped from the operating room.

Dr. Moulton carried the dog to a room for examination. He was a mass of bruises but no bones were broken and the surgeon sent him to Angell Memorial Hospital.

Chicago, Oct. 31 (INS)—Frank Nitti, "The Enforcer," and field director of Scarface Al Capone's gangs, was seized in a Berwyn apartment early today by a raiding squad, concluding two months' search which has been nation-wide.

Nitti's capture was second in importance only to that of Al Capone, according to Robert I. Randolph, director of the "secret six" crime fighting committee.

Nitti was wanted for questioning in connection with recent gang atrocities laid to the Capone gang, including the machine gun slaying of Joe Aiello, millionaire alcohol king and enemy of Capone.

CHINESE 'REDS' FIRE ON SHIP

Hankow, Oct. 31 (AP)—A Communist battery near Kienli, Hupeh Province, today sharply attacked the British gunboat Aphis, forcing the vessel to use six-inch guns to protect herself.

The Red cannonaders also were reported to have showered the Aphis with rifle fire. Machine guns of the Aphis supplemented her big guns and sprayed the shore line of the Yangtze river with bullets. The Britishers finally silenced the Communist fire.

PANGALOS HELD IN GREEK PLOT

Athens, Greece, Oct. 31 (AP)—With the arrest of the former dictator, Gen. Theodorus Pangalos, and 27 military officers and civilians, police believed today they had frustrated a plot to depose Premier Eleutherios Venizelos and reinstate Pangalos.

Most of the arrests were made Wednesday night, when police surprised a group of army officers and others at a meeting. A warrant was issued for Pangalos, who was dictator in 1926. He was arrested at Eleusis, brought back to Athens and placed in solitary confinement. Premier Venizelos at present is in Turkey.

Police charge Deputy Grigoraskis is equally responsible with Pangalos for the plot, but he is immune as a member of Parliament and cannot be arrested until Parliament grants permission.

ONLY STATE CAN MODERNIZE 'L,' ELY ARGUES

The following statement was issued today by Joseph B. Ely, candidate for governor:

There are certain underlying principles affecting the Boston Elevated Railway situation of which proponents of the cause of public control, seem to lose sight. It is necessary that this utility should furnish service which is cheap and rapid. It is also vitally essential for it to keep pace with the constant expansion of the city by reason of which it becomes necessary for extension of service. Such costly extensions must be financed over long maturity periods without too much amortization burden.

Without these extensions the Boston Elevated Railway becomes a decadent system. You may view this question from any angle you wish, but the plain fact is that the state must step in, either on one plan or the other to save for the great masses of the people a cheap, rapid and convenient method of reaching their work and their homes.

ELEMENT OF UNCERTAINTY

If it were not for the peculiar situation existing it would probably be unnecessary to advocate either public control or public ownership. Under public ownership we establish a permanent method of operation. By this step the financial ability to pay its obligations is positive, financing is easy, and in these times should be accomplished at extremely low rates with long term obligations and easy conditions of maturity.

I should expect the figures to be even more favorable than have been discussed in my previous remarks, and certainly much more favorable than contemplated by the advocates of public control. Public control contemplates a prolongation of the present operation for a definite number of years.

Anyone financing wishes to know what is going to happen at the end of the period who will then operate the road, what will be its financial backing? This element of uncertainty, even though the period is one of 20 years or 30 years, necessarily increases the cost of financing, nor does it relieve the Commonwealth from the obligation of giving the system financial assistance through taxation. There can be no doubt that governmental financing, upon a permanent basis, is cheaper than private or semi-private financing over a period of 20 years, leaving what is to follow in uncertainty.

FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

There is only one possible argument to be considered in deciding between public ownership and public control, that is the usual argument in reference to political interference and lack of spirit in operation. Whether operated upon under public control or public ownership, the whole question is thrown into politics. It is a politically operated utility in either event.

In either event its successful operation depends upon the observation of a clean and energetic state government. For the sake of immediate construction of needed extensions, and to preserve cheap transportation that meets the requirements of the people, and in order to save the state from financial burden under the exigencies of this particular case, I advocate public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway.

GILLETTE HEADS DENY PROFIT IN STOCK

Denial of charges made in a bill in equity in Supreme Court by minority stockholders that directors of Gillette Safety Razor Company profited by sales of stock was made by the directors today in a public statement.

"The individual directors have suffered a heavy personal loss in the matter," said the statement.

Other allegations contained in the bill were denied by the directors, who promised answers to the bill would be filed, setting forth fully the facts.

The statement follows in part:

"The claim made by the plaintiffs that the directors are under certain liabilities to the company for selling stock to the company was set forth in a letter sent a few days ago to the several directors by counsel for the plaintiffs with the request that they take action with regard to it. Pursuant to that letter a meeting of the directors was called for this morning to deal with the requ es and counsel for the plaintiffs were notified of that fact. It had been the intention to take appropriate action at this meeting. Without giving the directors an opportunity to take any steps whatever, the plaintiffs' counsel filed a bill yesterday.

"With regard to the charge that any of the directors personally profited from the transactions referred to, the directors state that the allegations of the bill are totally unfounded.

"In view of the subsequent decline in the market price of the stock, and in order to save the company from any loss, every director except Mr. Gillette has not only repaid to the corporation the purchase price of his shares with interest, but has also paid a sum corresponding to his participation in the syndicate, also with interest.

"With respect to Mr. Gillette, who is seriously ill in California and has not been able to attend any meeting of the board for a long time, he was persuaded by representatives of the corporation against his wishes to sell to the corporation some of the shares in which he is interested."

WOODS SEEKS DATA ON JOBS AND UNEMPLOYED IN NATION

Washington, Oct. 31 (INS)—The government's war on unemployment today was approaching that phase necessary in all campaigns—of solidifying its positions preparatory to a major attack.

Col. Arthur Woods, chief of the President's emergency employment committee, today received a preliminary report from Frederick C. Croxton, regional director for the middle western and Great Lakes states, on progress of the campaign on that front.

Croxton has returned to the committee headquarters to develop his plan to spread the Ohio idea of co-ordinated state, county and municipal construction activities to other states. In Illinois, a state organization has been engaged in a similar employment effort for some time.

The original organization will be further extended by the appointment of another regional director, and Col. Woods said he expected to announce his selection of a state representative for Illinois.

Meanwhile a part of Col. Woods' staff is functioning on a program for the collection of data on the number of unemployed by regions, vocational groups and industries.

Another is co-ordinating the work of states, and municipalities; the bonsas of the country are being mobilized by another, and there is a department devoting its time to sifting out suggestions for the relief of unemployment so those giving promise of quick results may be developed. Joseph H. Willits of Wharton School of Economics, of the University of Pennsylvania, has charge of this phase of the work.

ESTIMATES LACKING.

While the Woods committee receives almost daily notification of the part the federal Government is prepared to take in accelerating public construction, the work of learning what states and municipalities are doing, is proceeding more slowly.

Neither the Department of Commerce nor the Woods committee has any figures available. Col. Woods is endeavoring to get figures direct, and the Commerce Department figures are not yet due. The last figures available give an estimate of $3,500,000,000 as the public building program for 1930, including public utilities. That estimate was made last January on reports from Governors of 26 states and approximate figures for 22 others.

Difficulty is also being experienced in obtaining exact figures on people out of work more up to date than last April when the census was taken. Col. Woods said today he had no figures similar to those given by the American Federation of Labor yesterday indicating the army of unemployed might grow to 3,000,000, but he assumed they might be approximately correct, as federation officials had had long experience in gathering employment data.

The labor federation pointed out that trade unions suffered less in the aggregate from unemployment than other groups. There are 850,000 trade unionists, according to federation figures, and the government's estimate of the jobless was 3,500,000.

Housewife Put Forth as Greatest Employer

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., head of the women's division of the President's emergency employment committee, believes the solution of the problem of unemployment lies, partly at least, in the home.

Her plan is to make the housewife the nation's greatest employer.

"If women will spread the gospel of prosperity, show that this country, even though it does have a little economic 'tummyache,' can produce more, live better and surpass in many ways any nation on earth, it would help."

The woman in the home, she says, can be most useful just now in finding jobs for men.

She maintains:

She is making a survey of the possibilities of the home as a field for employment.

Sudbury Man Injured as Auto Hits R. R. Car

Concord, Oct. 31—John Martin, 34, of Summer st, Sudbury, was brought to the Emerson Hospital here last night, suffering from injuries received when the automobile he was driving crashed into a gasoline propelled Boston & Maine car at the Hudson road grade crossing in Sudbury, as he was on his way home. His car was badly damaged.

2000 Jobless Riot Over Imported Laborers

Columbus, O., Oct. 31 (INS)—Reasons for the importation of 75 laborers from Cleveland to work on Ohio's new state office building, nearly 2000 jobless men of Columbus today started a riot on the site along the Scioto river front here.

No one was injured. Work on the wrecking of the old buildings on the site was stopped.

3466 Recalled to Jobs in Detroit

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—Factories and shops in Detroit have recalled 3466 men this week, James M. Dunn, manager of the municipal employment bureau, said today. He added that a survey conducted by him showed that 2261 men were recalled to jobs last week, making a total of 5727 in a fortnight.

Construction Plans Leap; New England in Van

Actual contracts for construction work throughout the nation in the first nine months of 1930 are running 20 per cent behind the same period for 1929, but proposed construction is more than 5 per cent, or nearly $370,000,000 ahead.

This was revealed today by the F. W. Dodge Corp (Dodge Reports) of Boston and New York, the concern which furnishes its official data to the Department of Commerce.

In New England, the report stated, contemplated construction work in the nine months of 1930 is more than 70 per cent, or $100,160,000 more than the figure of $366,754,000 for the first nine months of 1929.

Actual contract work in New England for the 1930 period, however, is running more than 23 per cent behind 1929, the figures for 1929 being $435,548,000 and in 1930 being $278,215,000.

Statistics for some sections of the country are given in the following comparative chart:

	Contemplated work for '29	Actual contract work for '29	Actual contract work for '30

The following lists certain sections for the corresponding period of 1929, a number of districts being excluded because the statistics were not truly comparable or because there was very little difference between the two periods.

Mid. Atl. ...	$844,483,000	$657,316,000

E. Seth Schnitman, company statistician, referring to the substantial nature of the 1930 contemplated work said:

"This contemplated work running ahead of last year's figures is largely made up from engineering construction such as highways, dams, bridges, roads, irrigation projects, pipe lines, sewer and water systems, water front developments, incinerator plants, and similar projects in addition to general building.

"It may be interesting to note that the bulk of this gain in contemplated work is due to the increase in construction plans in the New England states."

The total contemplated work for the first nine months of 1930 throughout the nation amounted to $7,819,050,000, compared to $7,149,850,000, for 1929.

The total actual contract work for this period in 1930 amounted to $4,053,196,400 compared to $3,961,394,800 for 1929.

In all figures above, ten per cent was estimated to represent the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states.

VET SUES KIN FOR FUNDS

Disclaiming paternity of a 17-year-old "daughter," Harry Ingaham, disabled war veteran of Asonet, today filed a bill of complaint in Norfolk court seeking $1800 he claims was received from his compensation by his parents-in-law.

The girl, Mary Lee, was born May 12, 1913, his petition says, and he discovered she was colored. His wife's explanation that her father had colored blood was accepted.

A divorce was granted him Sept. 10, 1918, on the ground of habitual unfaithfulness and he has since remarried, the bill says.

On March 13, 1929, the father-in-law was appointed guardian of the child and has been receiving 20 per cent of his $50 a month compensation for her support, Ingham charges.

He asks that compensation before and after the guardianship totalling $1600, be returned to him.

Tariff Board Asked to Rush Oil Probe

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Independent oil producers of the southwest today urged the tariff commission to speed its inquiry into the comparative costs of production of American and Venezuelan crude oil, left on the free list in the 1930 tariff act after six attempts to make it dutiable had failed in the Senate.

Golfer Bags Wild Goose on the Wing

Salem, Mo., Oct. 3 (AP)—H. A. Young went on the Salem golf course today in quest of birdies. His game was not so good, but he bagged one bird—a large wild goose.

While playing he had his hunting license with him and selected his brassie for a shot. The goose started flying away but Young cracked the ball and brought the bird down.

Wife Seeks Divorce When Hubby Cooks

Chicago, Oct. 31 (AP)—A divorce complaint on file here today, charging cruelty, made this allegation against a husband:

"He always wanted to stay home and do the housework."

Mrs. Jeanette Liebner was the complainant; Alexander Liebner the defendant.

Moroccans Hold Two Airmen for Ransom

Casablanca, Morocco, Oct. 31 (AP)—Hostile Moroccan tribesmen are holding two French aviators for ransom, payment of which two others of the plane's crew are arranging at Tiznit. The plane was forced down in the extreme southwestern Morocco. The tribesmen seized the plane and two of the crew.

Pay Increase Urged for Larger Families

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 31—Increased salaries for ministers so they can afford larger families are advocated by the Rev. Kenneth McArthur, field representative of the American Eugenics Society. He gave his views at a meeting of Nashville ministers.

"The Reluctant Dawn," the story of a girl who loved but once, who was arrested for murder, put up a thrilling defense and was acquitted, begins in the next Boston Sunday Advertiser. SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

While many of us have not an odd job to offer those in desperate need, many of us can and would, I think, send in a "Cheerio Bundle," containing some warm clothing, perhaps out of style and somewhat used, yet which will keep some one warm. Or it may contain some serviceable shoes or a jar of jelly, or a bag of potatoes from the farm. So if the American will open "Cheerio Headquarters," New England hearts and hands will do the rest. A man may not get a job after looking all day, but if he can take home something to bring cheer to his loved ones his heart is lightened for the next day's search. So, Mr. Editor, it's your move to start the ball a-rolling.

CHEERIO.

Drys Err in Trying to Revise History

Editor Boston American

It is to be regretted that in a few instances of late, the zeal of some women arguing for prohibition has smothered their reason.

We are not going to advance the cause of prohibition by boldly denying the existence of drinking customs in the '80s. If we are true to history, we know that Abraham Lincoln was a total abstainer. Prohibition cannot be defended by misrepresenting the usual customs of the day.

If Lincoln did drink out of a bung hole (and he is represented today in that act in cartoons), be a little indiscreet to make it public, but it cannot shut our impeded present day prohibition. Above all things let us be reasonable.

Woman Voter Seeks Information on Repeal

Editor Boston American:

Brought up in Maine and not having seen liquor sold it seemed strange to find so many little double doors, opening off the sidewalk in Montreal and to have a relative here tell me that meant a place where intoxicants were sold.

They do not smell as bad I am told as the old saloons did here, if one goes by any of them in time.

Of course being in service in a Back Bay home one sees often bottles of what is called "booze." But it seems that many of these are "dry" which does not satisfy many wet people, so I ask their pardon now, not to have a hole in a dry dumper and they lose caste. So society women are making to have what they used to get with their groceries.

But before I vote would someone tell me if it is wrong to cast a ballot against [illegible] required by laws of the United States, for if so, I'll vote [illegible].

Earl Carroll Finds Defender in Boston

Editor Boston American

We hear so much in the newspapers and about town, in general of this bad, bold fellow, Earl Carroll that one is almost inclined to believe that this villainous appearance of physical perfection is some horrible genie out of an Arabian Nights' tale. We say mother, tap their daughters' knee in the head and say "Keep away from that theater, my dear. That awful man, Earl Carroll, is in town again." Some of them may be children but if they are termed thus at 50, it's all beyond me. Come to think of it, I don't think Earl is such a bad, bold fellow after all.

I don't doubt that he has his faults, grievious faults; but who hasn't. Show me the man who is utterly untouched by vanity or unspoiled by time, and I am willing to serve him in bondage. Bah! These fellows who think they know everything make me sick.

Where Is the League With All These Troubles?

Editor Boston American:

Mussolini's latest declaration that he sees war preparing against Italy makes us speak out—what has become of the League of Nations? Who is their dictator, etc.?

Lloyd George says the German crisis storms Europe too.

Brazil has its troubles also, and press despatches from Nanking, China, state that there has been plenty of fighting at Kuan, where 800 were captured by Communist hordes.

The only time I see the league crowd doing something in here is in the Zion controversy in England, which is civilized.

Cigarettes for Wife a Puzzle to This Reader

Editor Boston American

To many readers of papers some items of news make us itch with curiosity, to understand why judges on the bench render certain decisions.

The Detroit judge who recently ordered a husband to give his wife $2 a week for cigarettes must have had a good reason.

We may be unfair in making any reflections upon decisions of this type but they do create a great deal of curiosity to know why such a sentence should be levelled upon any husband no matter how [illegible] astray he may be from one [illegible]-nicotine.

This is no [illegible] of verbal fire against judges for no one can envy their responsibilities. They are often in tight positions. But some of their decisions as reported in these columns do not indicate deep searchings of mind to know why they are given. This is so with a recent decision in a Boston court.

Lands Work of White at State House

Editor Boston American

I'd like to propose a little toast to Joe White, of Jamaica Plain, one of the most active members of the legislature, with a legion of friends in both parties. His work on the Committee on Public Utilities has caught my eye.

At Paris Island in the fall of 1918, Joe was quarterback on the Marine team, whose personnel included Benny Boynton, former All-America football star.

Joe is now a proud daddy and his many friends have high hopes that the future holds further honors for one who is faithful in on the job working for [illegible] mocracy.

Playgrounds for Poor of Tenements Urged

Editor Boston American:

If New York City has voted 30 millions of dollars for additional parks and playgrounds to enable children cooped up in close quarters in tenements to enjoy life away from congested portions of cities, why cannot Boston do more?

Every play ground well managed is a great educational center as well as a joy forever to the average city child.

It means so much to so many.

Women's City Club Liberal to Mencken

Editor Boston American:

The Women's City Club of Boston, more liberal in its ideas than many other organizations of this city, and that is saying a great deal, will hear Henry L. Mencken at the club headquarters next Monday.

Henry is an intellectual artist, or as some women in Boston call him "an intellectual anarchist." He is just a writer as a writer of shams. He that type of man who does not believe a word you say, but would die for your right to say it.

He goes out of the well beaten path and some of his spirit might be serviceable in Boston to correct and iron out censorship of books and laws. He is our foremost warrior in the great war of liberation, and does not want people guillotined because they do not agree with him. I do not agree with him, but I can hand it to the Women's City Club of Boston that they are not afraid of new ideas.

Paul Revere Proved Jack-of-All-Trades

Editor Boston American:

We keep honoring the memory of Paul Revere for that midnight ride of April 18-19, 1775, and wondering over the color of the horse he rode. The Lexington Historical Society declares the animal was not white. No one knows for sure its color.

But Paul was not only a champion rider of horses. He figured in so many trades and vocations that he becomes today an object of growing interest. He practiced dentistry, executed book plates, made bells like the one today hanging in the tower of King's Chapel, made the best silver tankards for the topers silver tea pots, silver cream pitchers, which I believe are exhibited in the Art Museum.

He was president of the first Board of Health in this city, coroner of Suffolk County, foreman of the jury, and many other positions did he hold, and thanks to a recent life of his, these accomplishments in his career in Boston are now being resurrected. He was the first one to claim that every one should have two trades to work one, while the other was dull. Not a bad idea in modern times.

Beef Shank or Ragout Is Good Dish for Dinner

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast over Station WHDH.

Having studied yesterday some of the less known and more economical cuts of beef, we'll cook them today in what I hope will be new and interesting ways to you.

Martha Lee

First, let's make three pounds of beef shank and see how we can make a delicious dish from it.

Now, cut the meat from the shank into 1¼ inch cubes. Salt and pepper the pieces and dredge them with flour Heat a heavy pot or iron frying pan very hot and put in a small amount of fat, perhaps three tbsp. Brown the pieces of meat lightly in this fat and when they are a nice brown add one tbsp. of finely minced onion, the shank bone which should be split if possible and enough hot water barely to cover the meat. Add half a cupful of canned and strained tomato juice, cover tightly and cook two hours or more.

FUN IN EGG NOODLES

Now remove the bones and add two cupfuls of egg noodles and enough hot water to keep the noodles from sticking. Season with salt and cook until the noodles are tender. This dish is delicious served with fried sweet potatoes and a tasty cabbage salad.

Another unusual way of using the beef shank is to salt and pepper the meat which has been cut from the bone and brown it lightly in a heavy pot in suet which has been tried out. Add two cups of hot water, cover tightly and simmer until the meat is very tender and separates from the bone. Cool slightly, remove the meat and cut into small chunks. Press the meat into a baking dish and add enough soup stock or hot water with bullion cubes to cover the meat

Over this arrange a thick layer of your favorite bread dressing seasoned with sage, onion, and parsley, and a tbsp. of lemon juice Bake this in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 20 minutes. This dish is nice served with hearts of lettuce with Russian dressing and beets with orange sauce

We'll just have room for Southern Ragout, made from two pounds of chuck steak. Have the butcher cut the meat in small pieces, about two inches across. Sear this in a deep kettle and add four cups of canned tomatoes, one large onion, ten whole cloves, 1 tsp. salt. Cook over simmering burner or at a very low temperature for about two hours or until the meat is tender Meanwhile, boil one cup of rice in two quarts of water which has been salted with one tbsp. of salt. Drain and wash with cold and then hot water, and steam in the drainer until the meat is ready to serve Arrange the rice around the top.

HOW TO SERVE

It can be arranged in a ring mold or heaped in the center of the dish, and the meat and gravy around the rice, or with the meat in the center of the ring mold When the meat is removed from the sauce the sauce can be boiled down until it is reduced to half the original quantity, when it will be thick and rich. To balance this dish, we suggest spinach or broccoli, corn muffins, and for dessert a fruit salad

Start the Day Right

Did it ever occur to you that most of the work you or your family do through the day is accomplished in the morning? And that coupled with this fact breakfast is the lightest meal of the three? The one who starts off with the most substantial breakfast is the one who gets the best edge on his day's work. Breakfast eating is a matter of habit; that is, the use of the meal.

You may think you can't eat much in the morning, but you'll notice that around 10 or 10 30 your head begins to ache and you start nibbling chocolates or crackers and rush out at noon time to order the first thing your eye finds on the menu, provided it sounds filling, enough. All of which is not the thing to do at all, according to dietitians

If you eat a good hearty breakfast, it will carry you right up to the lunch hour, and you will be sufficiently nourished so that you can choose a light, sensible lunch that won't put you to sleep around 2 o'clock in the afternoon. All of which is a long way around to tell you about the beneficial effects of oatmeal for the breakfast menu

Oatmeal makes an ideal fall and winter food and heads the list as one of the best balanced cereals. It is high in protein content and contains lime and iron, potash, phosphorus and malt. To be sure that you are buying pure, dependable oats let me tell you of a favorite brand I know

STOP CONSTIPATION THIS PLEASANT WAY

ONCE PEOPLE thought pills and drugs were the only way to relieve constipation. But the modern, safer method is to include sufficient roughage in the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a delicious ready-to-eat cereal, gives you this bulk, and overcomes constipation naturally. Read this enthusiastic letter:

"I've was an extreme case of constipation. I had almost given up hope of ever being relieved.

"One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago." Mrs. F. E. Leslie, 3104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Delicious when served with milk or cream. Cook into tasty bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to the diet. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. The original All Bran.

HALLOWEEN SALAD

Grated rind of 1 orange

Of five large red apples, scoop out the inside, making little cups for the salads Fill the hollows with celery, apples and orange rind mixed with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce or crisp cabbage leaves with Pabst-et Pumpkins, made by taking 1 level tbsp. of Pabst-et creaming and rolling it into a ball. Flatten it slightly on top and bottom. With a toothpick mark lines on it to look like a pumpkin, stick a whole clove in the top of each for a stem

Stain Remedies

Peach stains should be removed with borax before washing, as soap suds will set them so they cannot be removed. Peach stains can also be removed by dampening the stains and covering them with cream of tartar. Lay article in sun till dry. Alcohol is also a good remedy for peach stains. If the stains have already been wet, try camphor on them

Delicious Apple Float

THIS DELICIOUS APPLE FLOAT was feature of the Martha Lee Cooking Demonstration Tuesday and Wednesday, this week. It looks almost good enough to eat!

Apple Float Is a Treat

The pretty picture on today's page shows you how the delicious apple float made by Martha Lee in her third cooking class this week looks before it goes the way of all good things.

We have put a nut on the top instead of a cherry and molded it in dainty molds, but otherwise it's the very same recipe, and here are the steps in preparation

MARTHA'S APPLE FLOAT

1 c. fresh apple sauce
2 egg whites, beaten
Sugar, nuts, nutmeg
Cocoanut or whipped cream

Put the apples or apple sauce through a sieve, heat, with sugar to sweeten, while hot add the yolks of egg whites and beat together until fluffy, and add chopped nuts Chill, and serve very cold topped with whipped cream or cocoanut sprinkle with nutmeg and garnish with candied cherries.

Good Bread Staff of Life

With school days and fall days coming upon us all in a heap the question of how best to feed the ever busy and energy consuming children arises once again. Lunch boxes must be filled, you know, from morning toast to evening bread and milk for the littlest ones, bread plays an humble but powerful role. You need have no fear of letting the kiddies eat as much as they like of a certain "home flavor" bread, now selling for only seven cents for a large loaf. The children love it, and it's so good for them. Starting with the best materials, the bakers compound them skillfully, then bake them in ovens so controlled that each loaf is baked to perfection. That's why the crust is delicately brown, the texture of the loaf so firm and even, and why it tastes so good. It makes wonderful sandwiches, too.

Don't Bewail Costly Cuts

We sometimes hear a homemaker bewail that she cannot afford always to buy the most expensive cuts of meat—beef, particularly, coming into the category of the most bewailing. It's cheering to remember that cut for cut, the cheaper cuts of beef and the most expensive cuts of beef contain the same amount of nutriment, the same amount of stamina, which every homemaker hopes to inject into each member of the family.

The difference, of course, in the cuts of meat, is in the taste and "chewability" It is most easier and a great deal more satisfying to chew a tenderloin steak than a steak cut from a more exercised portion of the animal.

SPEED URGED IN CANCER CURE

New York, Oct. 31—The public must be educated through the newspapers and other agencies about the importance of starting ill treatment of cancer in the earliest stages.

This was the keynote of address given before medical experts at the dinner of the New York committee of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Dr. John C. A. Gerster chairman said:

"Cancer is curable if diagnosed early, treated promptly and properly. The chances for cure when the cancer is treated early, are:

"Cancer of the breast, 75 per cent, according to Dr. Joseph L. Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins; cancer of the larynx, 100 per cent, according to Dr. John F. MacKenty of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital; skin cancer, more than 90 per cent, according to Dr. George H. Bernhem, surgeon, Kniekerbocker hospital; cancer of the lip, 85 per cent, according to Bloodgood, cancer of the cervix, 65 per cent, according to Dr. William P. Healy of the Memorial Hospital."

In the Malibu mountains, dotted with ranches and cabins, the most devastating fire was facing 500 armed by a few miles from it another blaze, burning since Wednesday, went out of control last night and raced to the heavy timber around the Los Angeles county line within the area.

The Simi ridge blaze was brought under control but night on all fronts but the one where it rolled close to the Monte Bello oil field. It was described as the most disastrous fire in the county in six years.

PROTECT YOUR PROTEINS

"You may perform a very interesting experiment in your own home," says Dr. Copeland, America's leading food authority, "by carefully mixing white flour and water and then turning the mixture slowly under a flow of cold water. The starch will wash away and what you have left is gluten. The gluten is filled with extremely valuable proteins. One of the evils of flour bleaching is that the process may damage the gluten." Get New Ideas for the Young to Shoot

MARION E. WHITE EDNA F. HARDING

TEACHERS TOLD TO INSPIRE

Teachers should be selected primarily for their high morals, former superintendent of Everett schools Randall J Condon told teachers of Middlesex county today at the annual meeting in Tremont Temple

"The character building and parent training of the present-day youngster cannot be stressed too highly," he said. "Teachers should inspire children to build high ideals. I do not believe any child can be taught by a teacher who does not believe in what she teaches."

Similar meetings were held at Ford Hall Gardner Auditorium in the State House and the Hollis St Theater

Rolo W Brown of Cambridge, speaking at Ford Hall, said

"The solving of most of the problems in the present-day living conditions rest in the minds of grade school pupils. It is therefore your duty to train them to have the courage to carry out their convictions."

Prof Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard at Tremont Temple spoke on "George Washington as an Educated Man" and recommended the reading of Washington's diary

WIDER CANAL IS JOHN F.'S PLAN

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald in a statement today called on the Governor's emergency committee on unemployment to urge on President Hoover the widening and deepening of the Cape Cod canal

This project he proposes as a necessary undertaking at the present time and one which, calling for some future of approximately $25,000,000, should give employment to practically all skilled labor in southeastern Massachusetts, he says

Government engineers have made a study of the project and will soon report, and it is Fitzgerald's idea that Massachusetts should demand speedy action

"This undertaking would do more to relieve unemployment in Southeastern Massachusetts than anything else," he said "It would mean employment of practically every skilled man in and around Fall River, New Bedford, Taunton, Middleboro and Wareham, where numbers of factories have closed down in recent months and many are out of work.

"Widening and deepening of the canal must come. It is the demand of Commerce. It will mean that two ships can pass."

SLICED OR UNSLICED

There is no bread like

Bond Bread

And a gain of 3,708,343 loaves proves it!

BOND BREAD can now be bought in either a sliced loaf or in an unsliced loaf, and sliced Bond Bread is now the choice of many who had been using other brands of sliced bread. They tell us there are two big reasons why they like Bond Bread better:

First—Bond Bread is so firm. Each slice is more substantial.

Second—The flavor of sliced Bond Bread is better than the flavor of any other bread except Bond Bread in the uncut loaf.

It is the same flavor that has made Bond Bread outsell all other loaves in the world. That it is more popular than ever is proved by the fact that, so far this year, consumers have bought 3,708,343 MORE loaves than last year.

You may buy sliced bread for convenience, but you no longer need put up with inferior flavor now that you can get sliced Bond Bread, as well as Bond Bread in the uncut loaf.

"Why I changed to Chipso"

Mrs. E. W. C.—
"Dirt just soaks away"

"I let my clothes soak for a few hours in those wonderful, lasting Chipso suds," this West Medford housewife says. "Only very dirty places need a light rub or two. The rest of the dirt has simply disappeared." Both her clothes and her hands are whiter than they have been in years, she adds delightedly.

Mrs. J. B.—
"No 'special treatment' for my colored clothes any more"

"Colored clothes used to be such a bother," says a letter from Weymouth, Mass. "I didn't dare use the same soap that I used for white things. But Chipso Granules fixed that! Their thick gentle suds make white clothes dazzling and leave colors bright.

Ready-made suds! Instant—lasting—richly cleansing!

Try Chipso Granules—

Chipso Granules are Chipso suds, already prepared for you. These tiny, steam-dried bubbles of soap need only the touch of lukewarm water to burst into billows of rich suds that spent away dirt in a twinkling. Think of that—no waiting for hot water! Every Chipso Granule dissolves instantly into concentrated cleaning power. Try this time-saving convenience! Bright colored fabrics, sparkling glassware and smooth white hands are equally safe with Chipso Granules.

Mrs. I. M.—
"I'm always in a hurry!"

"We have so many friends, and such a good time—but since I spend my days in an office, it means that lingerie and dishes have to be washed at top speed. Chipso Granules make it easy. All that wonderful sudsing—right away! No soap particles to worry about! And my hands keep right on looking frivolous."

Mrs. M. L. S.—
"White, creamy Chipso suds fill my washer"

"These rich suds just stand up and work till the grimiest wash is delightfully clean and white," says this letter from historic Plymouth. This housewife adds that since she soaks her clothes first in the suds, she never has to do any real rubbing. Do you wonder more Chipso is used in washing machines than any other soap?

DUST MAY BRING NEW 'ICE AGE' TO EARTH

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 31 (AP)—Solar eclipse studies that in future years may reveal the cause of the earth's great glacial periods were described to the Optical Society of America today.

The glacial theory is one recently advocated by the Astronomer Dr Harlan T. Stetson that the sun at times may travel through dust clouds in space which shadow its rays sufficiently to reduce the earth's temperature to ice-age levels.

"If such lowered temperature should persist for any considerable length of time winter snows would cease to melt and an ice sheet of vast extent would gradually form in the otherwise temperate zones. This appears to be one of the most plausible explanations of the well known glacial periods."

By obtaining many measurements of the coronal light, and making them accurate enough, he said astronomers finally may determine much now unknown about the cause of the light fluctuations. One unknown concerns the sources of the light. One theory of the source, which Dr. Stetson said deserves "serious consideration," is the possibility that it in part reflected from these dust particles, and so is an evidence of the dust clouds.

In his recent analysis of dust cloud effects, Dr. Stetson pointed to astronomical evidence of their existence in the path the sun is known to be traveling. He commented upon effects of dust particles scattered in the earth's atmosphere by the Pelee and Katmai eruptions as I ad lec.

"The dust particles acted much as a screen to the radiation of the sun and were undoubtedly responsible for the decreased solar radiation reaching earth during these years. If such can be the effect of a relatively thin shell of volcanic dust it is more than likely that the passage of the solar system through a cosmic dust cloud would result in lowering the temperature of the earth by several degrees."

CURIOUS CREATURES

Chelsea's "Shadow" Robs Victims as They Sleep

A sure-footed "cat burglar," who signs himself "The Shadow," scaled two verandas and a roof early today to rob the home of William G. Morgan at 191 Central ave., Chelsea, while Morgan, his wife and his brother-in-law slumbered all unaware.

The "cat burglar," got $22 in cash, and two watches, taken in the bedrooms of the sleepers.

If he had known his calendar better and had come on a most any other Thursday Friday overnight period he would have gleaned anywhere between $600 and $1500—cash money.

Morgan, a contractor usually has this money for his Friday payroll, but yesterday most of his workers asked the favor of their pay a day in advance.

When he left, the "cat burglar" wrote a penci from Mrs Morgan's handbag and scrawled on the kitchen wall:

"The Shadow—Goodby."

PORT OF BOSTON

By CARL MORRISON

Two important points developed at the luncheon held at the Ritz-Carleton yesterday in honor of Jean Tillier, general representative in the United States and Canada for the French Line.

The line hopes to make Boston a port of call next year, and to establish a regular terminal when business warrants he revealed.

Mr Tillier and H Ainsley Hagman, New England agent of the line, both suggested that Commonwealth Pier be made a free dock-ing place for liners.

As for this suggestion, both men felt that more steamship business might be attracted to the port if the State or city absorbs the relatively small charges now made. The value of the proposal is not so much that the lines would object to a small charge, but rather that the city and port would gain valuable advertising by a policy of free docking.

MORE SOVIET COAL

About the end of November, another cargo of coal, from the Soviet mines in Russia will be sent to Boston. The British steamer Blairmore left Mariupol Oct 26 with 8000 tons of anthracite.

These investigations followed soon after his graduation in 1925 from Harvard Law School. Previous to that, he obtained in 1922 a degree of bachelor of science in chemical engineering at Tufts College.

Tom Gillespie Meets Big Cyclone Tim

"I SAID how much will you pay?" Cyclone Tim countered sternly as Tom Gillespie awaited an answer to his proposition.

What Has Gone Before

Polack Annie, notorious gangster girl, flees Chicago and seeks the protection of New York's biggest racketeer, "Silk" Freeman. Freeman is fascinated by her beauty and provides an expensive hotel suite for her. At a night club the admiration of the young and wealthy Tommy Gillespie for Annie arouses Freeman's jealousy. Tom learns of Freeman's plan to get in on his father's trucking business and vows to fight it.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER 7

CYCLONE TIM McCLOSKY was a dese, dose and dem guy. Tough, ungodly, uncouth and—with a heart as big as a Mulberry St. watermelon. He was the giant leader of the River Rats—as unearthly a crew as was ever gotten together on land or sea or beneath the Brooklyn Bridge—vicious, ferocious and predatory men captained by as tough a roustabout as ever kicked a cobblestone on South St.—and a great guy at that.

Cyclone Tim was no ordinary Kansas twister that tears the seat out of a man's pants. He was a typhoon that tore a man's insides out. No weapon was too lowly for him, nor were there any gentlemen's rules in the rought-and-tumble battle of his existence. He had been cuffed in childhood by his mother, beaten in youth by his father, and clubbed into manhood by the police. His followers were loafers; lushers, jacklrollers, lumberjacks, stevedores, sailors who had deserted ship and a mob of East River toughs born or deserted to the garbage and muck of human possessions along the water front.

Meets Cyclone

Tommy Gillespie, greasy cap over one eye and muscles bulging beneath soiled dungarees, found Cyclone Tim in a foul saloon on Water Street, just a block from the river where his father's trailers were loaded and emptied. He found Cyclone Tim because he was looking for him. It was no accident.

Tommy had been wised up to the ways of water-front etiquette since his few days on his father's trucks. So he didn't talk out of turn. But he spotted the bulk and the hulk of Cyclone Tim at the end of the bar the minute he entered. He called for a drink.

The bartender, with lowering, suspicious cuntenance set out the glass of colored alky without ever taking his eyes off Tommy. He acted as though he had a mind to snatch it back at the slightest move. Tommy tossed his head, threw a little laugh and sent the hell-sizzling liquid down his pipes. He made a wry face, but he grinned, wiped his mouth and edged down the bar toward Cyclone Tim, half of whose displacement lay sprawled out on the liquor-seared walnut.

"Have a drink," he called to Cyclone Tim, and waved his arm with a sweep over the bar.

"Don't drink," growled Cyclone Tim.

Tommy sidled closer. Cyclone Tim watched him warily, his great, cathke muscles barely tightening.

"Know Biff Glasson?" asked Tommy looking him squarely in the eye.

"Never heard o' him," moodily. Then, with sudden suspicions verve: "S-a-y—Watcha tryin' t' do—get info'mation?"

Tommy spat it out—there was no other way.

"I'm Tall Tom Gillespie's son — that Bridge Twisters' mob is been hi jackin' our trucks and chasin' off our men —I'll kick in good dough to stop it."

Cyclone Tim never answered a word. Never moved a muscle of his walrus-hide face.

"I've heard o' yonse," he growled finally. He unlimbered himself from the bar, leisurely, dangerously. Tommy braced himself. Cyclone Tim drew up to his full height, and then he calmly looked Tommy over from head to foot. Presently he sank on the bar again, folding his arms.

"I'll grab a drink on you," he yielded.

What's the Pay?

The bartender, in whose eyes nestled terror and who had held one hand beneath the bar at the indications of a fight, quickly set out two glasses of the sallow, foul-smelling stuff. Then, without asking Tommy, he planted out others for the drooped figures along the bar who sprang straight up like marionettes at the first whiff of booze, and he poured a drink for himself.

"Here's to all o' youse," bellowed Cyclone Tim, making a swift move with the glass which was like a thimble in his hairy, greasy paw. Various inarticulate sounds came from the bozos.

"Now, how much will you pay?" whispered Cyclone Tim, moving the thick bottomed glass around absently on the wet bar.

"I know you hate the soul o' that Biff Glasson—"

"I said, how much will you pay?" Cyclone Tim countermanded sternly. "My hatin' is my own business. What's in this?"

* * *

Pete, the reluctant servant, heard the deadened buzzer. He slid into his bathrobe and shuffled to the door of the master chamber. He rapped. Silk Freeman opened the door an inch.

U. S. ARMY HORSEMEN DEFEAT RIVALS

Tech Freshmen Trim Sophs

EDISON BOY 'CAPTURED' BY FOES

Bonfires Bring Fire Apparatus to the Scene as Students Battle in Field Day

Pre-Field Day battles of M. I. T. freshmen and sophomores saw the lower classmen winners today, notably in the capture of Wilbur Huston, Edison scholar, and a turnabout in Concord that left a group of sophomore captors high and dry.

The sophomores did emerge victorious from the tug-o-war but the freshies offset this decisio n by trouncing the upper classmen in the crew race on the Charles

Huston was returne d just before the football game between the two classes started

Arthur Williams, Edison scholar of the freshman class, was well protected by his mates.

TABLES TURNED

But the Concord prank saw the tables completely turned on the sophs and gave police a bad hour at the same time

Robert Weld of Waterbury, Ct., was the intended victim. The freshman faced stranding there by a party of sophs who carried him out in a coupe

Weld fled in the coupe, however, while his captors were in a huddle, and, in retaliation, the sophomores reported the car stolen

Patrolman John Foster halted the car and took Weld to the station where the upper classmen told of the student prank.

BONFIRES BLAZE

Autos parked on Walker Memorial steps, bonfires that brought apparatus to the scene, burning of the freshman banner and the inevitable pajama parade were only a few of the things the embryo engineers "pulled" on the night before stunts

Meanwhile, several crates of ancient eggs were carefully guarded by the second year men and quantities of old crank case oil were under the protection of beginners. Both will be well spread before night, they promise.

First Sleuth Lesson Lands Store Guest

Jacob Goldman, Broadway hardware dealer, qualified as a detective today and brought the arrest of his promising prospect.

He told police that Frank Kelley 59, of Pine st., South End, was a frequent visitor to his shop and "always something was missing," but nothing was purchased

Today he trailed Kelley to a pawnshop and told police he identified a chisel Kelley had just "soaked" as one of his stock

Patman Cusick of the Lagrange st. station came along and Kelley was charged with the larceny of an assortment of hardware, total value $3.75.

CRAZED GUNMAN HUNTED HERE

Police today are combing the city for a crazed gunman who has shot down two pedestrians with a silenced rifle in the last five days

The gunman, believed to be suffering from a homicidal mania claimed his second victim last night. He is Charles Iatripoulos 43, who was felled by a silenced bullet near his restaurant at 471 Columbus ave., near West Newton

The first victim of the mysterious rifleman was James Sullivan 21, of Oneida st., South End, shot in South Boston, last Saturday night.

Last night officials began an investigation into the theft of several shot guns and rifles from an automobile in Dorchester a week ago on the theory that one of the guns was used.

In both cases the victims of the shootings claimed they had no reason to believe anybody wished to harm them. In each of the shootings the bullets were fired from a 22-calibre rifle

When Iatripoulos was shot he was picked up and helped to a taxi cab which hurried him to the hospital. At City hospital, a bullet was extracted from his left arm.

IN DRIVING CLASSES as well as hunter competitions, Mrs. Alvah G. Strong is entered. She has several horses entered in each day's events. (Staff photo.)

Burglars broke into three stores in the block at 1784 to 1790 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, early today and took $25 in cash, $125 in tobacco, $5 worth of candy and a .32 calibre gun, all from the delicatessen shop of Neshan Tashjan.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

More Than 12,000 at Garden for Most Spectacular Show to Date

The largest crowd since the opening of the Boston Horse Show three days ago swarmed into the Boston Garden last night to witness a brilliant program that kept seats filled until the final contest.

Slightly more than 12,000 persons, many of them of Boston's elite, attended

The feature was the championship international military stake, which drew entrants from the German, Canadian, Irish Free State and United States armies, and kept onlookers in constant excitement as the expert riders vied for first honors over the hurdles

U. S. WINNER

The United States unit made almost a clean sweep of this event. First prize of $ 000 went to Dick Waring, ridden by Maj. Chamberlin, and second prize to Tan Bark, also ridden by Maj. Chamberlin The Irish Free State's Oisin, ridden by Capt. O'Dwyer, collected third place, and U. S. Army's Eurron Girl, Lieut. Thomson up, took fourth. Fifth and sixth places went to the Irish and Canadian Armies, respectively

Fully as exciting was the Scurry Sweepstakes, contested on the basis of the shortest time over a steeplechase cours

Here again the U. S. Army team took first place with Babe Wortham, ridden by Lt. Wofford, and also third place. Second place went to H. Holen Crowell's Blue Fern, ridden by Danny Sun.

SWEDES APPLAUDED

This contest marked the first appearance of a Swedish team in this country. Although it failed to place among the first, it received great applause

Avocat, ridden by Captain Cole, won first prize in the Championship Jumper Stake over a large field, giving the U. S. Army first places in all the jumping events

Days of old were recalled when three tallyhos, drawn by beautifully trimmed horses and occupied by Boston society folk, dashed into the arena. Webster Knight won first place.

WINS AT 78

Miss Miriam Winslow, of Brookline, was thunderously applauded at the finish of the ladies' saddle horse event, although she took only third place.

H. A. Rugg, 78, demonstrated that age can hold a steady hand when he received the blue ribbon in the trotters' class and waved jauntily to the stands

A bit of excitement was furnished when one horse in the jumper stakes crashed into the fence surrounding the arena upon his exit and threw its rider. The rider, however, was up in an instant. Sturdy draft horses, drawing their lumbering wagons behind them came in for their share of glory also as they paraded slowly around the ring

It was a horse's world last night, and they all seemed to know it.

HARVARD 'CRIMSON' BRANDS WAR COURSES 'HAVEN FOR LAZY'

STUDIES HELD FAR BELOW STANDARD

Editorial Assails the Military Training Credits for B. A. Degrees

The courses in naval and military science at Harvard University were characterized today by the Harvard Crimson, editorially, as "a haven, a refuge for dull and lazy students."

In its editorial the Crimson comments on an editorial appearing in The Socialist, published by the Harvard Liberal Club, whose first issue appeared yesterday.

The Socialist editorial charged students in the naval and military science courses refused to give up to the Cambridge activities of the drama the use of Rogers building and experimental theater because the naval and military men were afraid of "dirty feet" if they drilled in the baseball cage.

The Crimson declared in its editorial that:

"The editorial from the Socialist, reprinted in these columns, expresses the idea that the existence of military training departments at Harvard is 'scarcely a serious matter—so long as it does not stand in the way of worthwhile future development.' This attitude of laissez-faire has characterized the position of the university ever since these units were established here. The fact that naval science interfered with the development of the Cambridge school of the drama has been merely the occasion for bringing the subject to the fore.

"The primary objection to the existence of Military and Naval Science Departments here is not, as 'The Socialist' would indicate, a matter of their interference with the development of Harvard. As has been pointed out before in these columns, the real question is: should a liberal arts college give credit to students for taking part in the unacademic pursuits of military training? If Harvard is to make pretensions as an institution primarily interested in an academic education, these courses should not be included in the curriculum.

"The technicalities of warfare cannot be construed as an integral part of an education in the modern humanities. Naval and Military Science are completely foreign to the liberal atmosphere that Harvard tries to create. That one-fourth of the time spent in the pursuit of the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Sciences must be spent in acquiring knowledge of military practices is an important weakness in Harvard's educational system.

"To add to the incongruity of the situation, the courses offered by both naval and military science are so far below the standard of the rest of the university that they have become a haven of refuge for dull or lazy students. Probation rules and other measures to maintain high scholastic levels are futile when it is possible to avoid the regulations of the dean's office through high marks in an easy, non-academic course.

"Finally, naval and military science, designed and administered by the United States government, is not a suggestion of militarism in Harvard that is wholly at odds with the present liberal trend towards peace. The tendency of these departments is to create a hyper-patriotism which is always on the lookout for a slight against the national honor. Instead of education for peace, this looks like education for war."

Playground Plan Killed in Newton

A petition by the Newton Center Woman's Club that the city purchase for playground purposes a lot of land adjoining the site of the John W. Weeks Junior high school in Newton Center, which is now under construction, has been denied by the Newton School Committee.

The committee held that the land on which the school building is being erected is large enough to provide sufficient playground space for the school. The committee was not unanimous on the question, as Committeeman Joseph F. Lockett was strong in favor of the acquisition of the land by the city.

2 GIRLS FACE GRILL IN TECH MYSTERY

Newton Co-eds Rode in Auto Before Student Vanished, Police Say

Two Newton high school girls will be questioned by police late this evening or tomorrow in connection with the attempted break at the Central Scientific plant, Amherst st., Cambridge, that resulted in the arrest of one Tech student and the disappearance of another.

The girls were on an auto ride with Edward S Reasey and a companion but were taken home before Reasey dropped his companion and picked up Harold W. Baker, Jr., Tech student who is missing.

Officer Joseph O'Connor of Cambridge captured Reasey at the scene of the attempted break at the Central Scientific Co. plant on Amherst st., and the latter implicated Baker, police say.

Reasey, also the son of a physician, was arraigned in East Cambridge court yesterday and released on $10,000 bail, after he pleaded guilty to carrying a loaded revolver and not guilty to a breaking and entering charge.

A laundry bag, bearing Baker's name, and an auto registered in the name of Reasey's mother, were found near the scene of the break.

The collection of guns and bottles of poison which police say they found in Baker's room at a Tech dormitory was explained by his parents. They say the boy is an expert marksman interested in fire arms and that the bottles contain chemicals not necessarily poisonous.

Ell, and spoke on "Mahatma Ghandi and India."

A personal friend of Ghandi and Rabindranath Tagore, he spoke at some length explaining the opinion of these noted figures. Some of his remarks were startling in that he revealed certain facts which he said had been largely misrepresented to American people.

CURLEY PLAN IS BACKED BY GOVERNOR

EDUCATORS IN LINE FOR HIS IDEA, TOO

U. S. Expenditure of Billion in Mississippi Valley Wins General Approval

Governor Allen today joined in the chorus of approval of Mayor Curley's project for the Federal Government to spend a billion dollars in the development of the Mississippi river in order to pick up business and relieve unemployment.

"I believe that the suggestion of Mayor Curley to President Hoover for the expenditure of a billion dollars for the permanent improvement of the Mississippi river," said Governor Allen "and the consequent banishment of devastating periodical floods by means of vast impounding reservoirs and the deepening and widening of the river, is a practical and statesmanlike proposition.

"This vast project must be done some time, so why not now. It will give employment for years to an army of men and add untold riches to their store by use of power the Mississippi valley, by furnishing hydro-electric power at an extremely low rate."

EDUCATORS BACK PLAN

This measure plans were discussed with enthusiasm at a meeting of [illegible] educators and [illegible] at the Parker [illegible] last night. [illegible] were [illegible] [illegible] were [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Mayor Curley is absolutely right both in his appeal for everyone to spend $30 and in his other terms in asking Mr. Hoover [illegible] Secretary of the United States Treasury, to spend a billion dollars to develop the Mississippi river.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Ralston said:

"I move that those of us present endorse the mayor's suggestion about Mississippi valley development and that the secretary of this committee be requested to write to President Hoover to that effect."

Mayor Curley said that the [illegible] has been [illegible] be revised as follows:

"It is the sense of this committee that we favor immediate action by the federal authorities, under the direction of President Hoover, for the Mississippi river project, fathered by President Hoover and the War Department, and anticipating the expenditure of $1,000,000,000 for the development of an inland empire in the Mississippi valley territory, with flood control, hydro-electric power development, and cheaper water transportation."

This motion was adopted and a copy was forwarded to President Hoover.

BOOM TO BUSINESS

S. L. McMillan, general manager of the Aberthaw Company, construction engineers, said today:

"If a billion dollars could be advanced in improving the Mississippi river, as suggested by Mayor Curley, I think it would be most beneficial to the country in this period of depression and would be a boon to business and labor."

Albert J. Welch, president of the New England Rock Excavating Company, said:

"I think Mayor Curley's plan a wonderful idea. It would give employment to many lines that are now on slack time. It would bring a demand for all kinds of labor and machinery. It would use vast quantities of cement, and that industry is 90 per cent under normal as present. Expenditure of a billion dollars for such an enterprise would accomplish widespread good."

HAILED BY SENATORS

Among Senators interviewed at Washington the general opinion was that the project outlined by Mayor Curley should be undertaken at once and made to rank with such outstanding federal developments as the Panama Canal and Boulder Dam.

Senator Caraway, (D), of Arkansas said:

"Such an undertaking would bring employment to those out of work because of business depression and those ruined by the drouth.

"It would [illegible] prosperity to the great Mississippi region which would reflect itself in the industrial centers of the East."

Senator Frazier (R) of North Dakota said:

"I favor expansion and development of the Mississippi valley. The proper development of the Mississippi will make it the richest valley in the world. Undertaken in the immediate future, the project would prove a tremendous aid in restoring national prosperity."

Goblins and Witches Will Fly Through the Night

IT WAS A LONG-LONG STORY, that Mrs. Frances Long read to her daughter Priscilla, at their home in Parkman st., Dorchester, last night. Daughter fell asleep. It concerned doings of ye old Halloween days and nights. The photographer was sure that if Priscilla thought much of today's festivities, surely during last night she dreamed of Halloween. In that dream must have appeared owls, witches, black cats and ghosts, not to forget the broom in the hand of active old witches. As the girl fell asleep during the Halloween story, the night of dreams was started. Remember Halloween is for fun. Not for pranks that injure your friends, neighbors or family. (Staff photos.)

Carved out pumpkins, black cats, big sister's clothes are due for another parade. Double windows and fence gates veer in their tempting ways. But these are all old.

The things to watch tonight are wax apples in the dipping buckets. Don't start off your dinner plate jumps, and try to get a bite if an air pistol suddenly centers at your ear.

NANCY CARROLL AND FREDRIC MARCH SCORE IN 'LAUGHTER' AT MET

GALA BILL FOR FIFTH BIRTHDAY

The Cast

Peggy Gibson	Nancy Carroll
Paul Lockridge	Fredric March
C. Marion Gibson	Frank Morgan
Ralph La Mahr	Glenn Anders
Marjorie Gibson	Diane Ellis
Denham	Stanislaus Zbyszko
Pearl	Jane Darwell

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THE METROPOLITAN, INSIDE its gaily decorated birthday coat reveals a program of great merit, for this week of its celebration of its nativity. The stage revue, "Paint in the Town," done with a great deal of color and snap, is balanced by an entertaining talkie, "Laughter," starring Nancy Carroll. That patrons are cognizant of the theater's fifth anniversary event, was proven by the big attendance yesterday.

• • •

Frederic March

W'f'. who is now, of course, out of sympathy with the Wall Street leaders, yearning for the pleasant things of life. He has mistresses, among whom of hers but one is Odell rushed up to the house, pushing that up-and-coming young gentleman of the films, Mr Frederic March, plumb into the arms of Miss Nancy. She has a yen for love and laughter; and in due time the penniless Mr March overcoming all the obstacles the story-writer puts in the path of true romance, wins his heart's desire. And he and Miss Nancy live—so we are led to imagine—happy ever after.

• • •

WE ARE FRANK to add that this nutshell statement of the plot does not give all the fun and zest which Director Henry d'Arrast has so cleverly handled in "Laughter." His great ability, aided by the sparkling dialogue contributed by Donald Ogden Stewart, made the picture worthwhile. Mr. d'Arrast speeds his cameras, sharply interweaves his scenes, and all in all gives us a splendid sample of what skill can do even when there handicaps, such as a none-too-good tale to tell.

• • •

MISS CARROLL will surely delight her admirers, for she carries herself to a higher niche than she has hitherto occupied. Mr. March does even better than she. Frank Morgan, Glen Anders and Dane Ellis are excellent to the full extent of the parts assigned them.

• • •

THE REVUE IS a Boris Petroff production, and it stars Rics & Werner, Kravael, and the Four Co-Eds. Frank Jenks acts as master of ceremonies. It is bright and deserving a place on a gala week bill. There are other treats on the Met's program, not to forget superb music superbly rendered by Mr Geissler's orchestra.

Los Angeles, Oct. 31—The rumors built around the film version of "Death Takes a Holiday" have been growing day by day. Who plays the leading role and what film company really owns the screen rights? These little matters were definitely settled this week when it became known that William Powell will play the lead in "Death Takes a Holiday" for Paramount.

Bill Powell has been walking around the Paramount lot since his return from Europe, talking story, discussing authors and sharing in the conferences to give him a play that would be something different. "Death Takes a Holiday," you will admit, should fill those requirements. It has been one of the most popular plays of the year and it gave Phillip Merrivale, who created the leading role on the New York stage a distinction he never had before enjoyed.

Louella O. Parsons

Richard Wallace has been selected to direct, and you may expect to read the rest of the cast very shortly.

TIME SOMETHING was said about Charles Bickford who flashed into the lives of the screen fans with his he-man roles and then almost as suddenly wasn't seen any more. Mr. Bickford will play the lead in "A Gentleman's Fate" which Mervyn Le Roy directs. I am interested in Mr. Bickford who is credited with being a temperamental soul. Let's hope he isn't too temperamental because if he is we can prophesy in two years he won't be on the screen. I have seen it happen many times. Maybe I am misjudging the lad for Michael Curtiz with whom he worked had nothing but good things to say about him. Just heard today that Leila Hyams will have the feminine lead in "Among the Married." Since Leila has been on the M. G. M. lot she has built up a following that seems to be increasing.

WHAT ABOUT George Bancroft and Paramount? Someone who should know whispers that when option day comes around George will not be summoned into the inside office. The story goes that his absence for so many months with a bad throat and a difference of opinion on stories, has decided the Paramount against renewing his contract. Meanwhile George continues to live at Santa Monica without looking to right or left. Wonder what he is thinking about?

COPLEY CAST IN COMEDY

Comedy will reign once more at the Copley tonight when E. E. Clive brings back Ian Hay's and Stephen King-Hall's piece, "The Middle Watch," a laugh-a-minute naval farce.

The cast, headed by Mr. Clive as Private Ogg, whose loyalty to the navy causes the girls many anxious moments and gives him a great opportunity for comedy, includes Ralph Roberts, Bertha Belmore, Elspeth Dudgeon, Robert Hobbs, Lena Anderson, Gerald Rogers, Francis Compton.

Last Chance to See Sarg's Marionettes

The last opportunities to see Tony Sarg's fascinating presentation of his Marionettes in "Alice in Wonderland" comes tomorrow, when two performances will be given at Tremont Temple. The series story of Alice, with all the lovable characters of Lewis Carroll's story coming to life under the magic fingers of the artists behind the scenes, delights children and their elders. Performances are scheduled for 10:30 in the morning and 2:15 in the afternoon.

FRESH AIR TAXI TAKES ITS FARES TO FILMLAND FUN

Although motion pictures are a new "propolition" for Amos 'n' Andy, they are inspired already with the results of their first screen appearance as the stars of "Check and Double Check," Radio Pictures' production, now at the RKO Keith's. They have expressed themselves as intensely pleased with their initial screen effort, as well as thrilled by their first contact with motion picture personalities.

Radio's greatest stars took keen delight in the preparations for the production, in the building of the sets, the technical gadgets used in bewildering variety for the recording and screening of the picture, and the quiet but effective methods of Mel Brown, the director and his staff, in bringing the picture to a conclusion. Amos 'n' Andy appear in no dashing heroic role as John Gilberts or Richard Dixes, but rather as themselves, the quaint, wistful, winning and warmly human partners of the Fresh Air Taxicab Company we have endeared themselves to millions.

Andy

O. O. McIntyre, the brilliant columnist, has written of them.

"Every night the nation tunes in to listen to the humdrum trivialities of their make-believe world. They never crack a joke, sing a song, pull a wisecrack or work up a dramatic climax."

It is just these simple, wholesome and lovable characters that they have endeavored to visualize on the screen in the play written by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmar, co-authors of a score of Broadway stage successes. The millions of people who listen in nightly to them on the radio have waited impatiently for their appearance on the screen.

ANGNA ENTERS IN PROGRAM

By MOSES SMITH

Angna Enters, who performed at Jordan Hall last night before a large and demonstrative audience, calls her efforts "Episodes and Compositions in Dance Form." And these designations, awkward as they are, are as apt as any others.

For here, to paraphrase an abler critician, is one who can dance beautifully, yet does not dance; a gifted actress who does not utter a syllable; a mime, incidentally, who relies little on facial bypay. The balance of her attributes are almost a contraction of the content of her creations.

If she would delineate a character, she does it largely by costuming and makeup, by body movements quite objective. For the most part her means are the most economical in the world, whether it be in the insignificance of her "properties" or in her muscular gestures. Rarely does she become extravagant, which is to say theatrical.

It is because of the highly objective quality of her act that no censor could take reasonable exception to an episode like "Promenade," in which a demimondaine seats her customary on the screen in the play written or the dance of the Directoire period, or "Odalisque," wherein we are a harem beauty going through her preliminary paces. These miniature dramas might easily become lewd vignettes were it not for Miss Enters' constant restraint

BROX SISTERS FEATURE

That they came, they sang and they conquered Irving Berlin, is what is said of the three Brox sisters, harmony singers de luxe who are headlining next week at the Keith-Albee. The famous Berlin, who wrote their producing at the Music Box, had never heard his songs sung the way the Broxes sung them. They started rehearsals the next day with "The Music Revue." And they've been famous ever since. A harmony team on and off the stage, the Brox girls have never been separated. The auburn haired Kathleen, the brunette Dagmar and the blonde Lorraine get along very nicely quite as free from the vocal manner Phonograph record enthusiasts will welcome them to this city with more than ordinary glee as they've been associated with the company's discs for many a year now and seemingly get more and more mellow as time goes on.

Nor have the musicals lost touch with them. They were in the Marx Brothers' "The Cocoanuts" and in one or two editions of the "Follies." Recently they were featured in several talking pictures. "Hit the Deck," Paul Whiteman's colorful epic "King of Jazz" and "Hollywood Revue."

EL KNEW HIS FEELINGS

During an early sequence of Raoul Walsh's "The Big Trail," which is now playing at the Washington Street Olympia and Uptown, El Brendel's mule, his constant companion in the picture, planted a real kick on the comic's anatomy. El rushed to the company doctor.

"Doc, do me something. The mule kicked me and I'm afraid I'm hurt internally."

"Not internally, El," said the doctor soothingly, "you mean externally. Internally means the lower regions."

"I know where I was kicked," moaned El, "you know your business and I know my feelings. Fix me up."

Trials of an Amateur Tex Rickard

What Has Been Done and Undone for Charity

Folks, behold a sadly deluded, disillusioned, dejected young man. Behold a durned phule that dreamt he was a Tex Rickard and woke up to the fact he was plain Mister Sap. Your column today, fans, is written by Muster Sap—plain Mister Augustus Sap. This morning when the Missus was brushing off our coat and we caught sight of ourself in the mirror we could not but help notice the astonishing resemblance we bore to Tex Rickard. In lieu of the ever present unlit perfecto the lean Texan used to tilt at an angle of forty-five degrees from his thin straight lips we tried a lead pencil. That feller in the mirror looked so much like the famous promoter now telling St. Peter how to pull more of 'em in at the gate, we almost ejaculated, "Lo Tex, glad to see you back ag'in."

Yes, we've been dreaming we were a regular Tex Rickard, a rip-snorter of a fight promoter who could get together the goshding-dest cards that ever caused the turnstiles to click like batteries of rapid fire guns. That was this morning. Now—now, well our pipe dream is over, the effect of the lotus has worn off. We're no longer Tex Rickard. We're just a plain sap with a headache—oh, what a headache!

George Underwood

Arranging big fistic matches is a lot like a card game. It is even more of a gigantic game of bluff than the great American game of poker. Tex Rickard who gambled in the eerie light of the Midnight Sun up yonder on the Northern rim of the world, gambled in the glare of the desert sands at Goldfield and Reno, gambled on the plush-lined tables of effete Fifth ave., New York, and just as effete Avenida de Mayo in Buenos Ayres, was born to the fight racket. Apparently we only were born to write little pieces for the paper.

We realize it now, but yesterday we thought we were Tex Rickard. Heh, heh—we thought we were Rickard.

You see we thought we had two great boxing shows arranged for the Christmas Fund of The Boston Evening American. Now we may not get even one. But we had two beauts. They were Sammy Fuller vs. Andy Callahan, the Arena, November 17.

Jim Maloney vs. Paolino, Boston Garden, December 7.

Maybe we'll get one of 'em, the battle between the big fellers, yet, but we can't promise you anything. We know a little now of what words mean in the fight racket. We've reached that stage where we will not believe any two fighters are going to fight until we see them clamber through the ropes and hear the clang of the opening gong.

PLAIN FACTS

Being no gambler, bluffer or sleight of hand man we don't need to roll up our sleeves. We'll lay the cards right on the table

Shortly after the Maloney-Carnera match we approached Dan Carroll, manager of Maloney, regarding a return match between Sharkey and the Italian Giant for the Christmas Fund. Carroll agreed and upon most fair and charitable terms. Billy Duffy, American manager for Carnera, accepted terms upon a fair and equable basis, too. Then something happened which neither Carroll or Duffy was responsible for and the match had to be abandoned.

Maloney agreed to box Jack Sharkey here for the Christmas Fund, and again upon fair and reasonable terms. Sharkey refused the match.

With Carnera and Sharkey out of it, Paolino was decided as the next best available opponent. Carroll, acting for Maloney, accepted the match. Lou Viti, Paolino's manager, accepted terms for Paolino on fair and charitable terms and has cabled Paolino to leave for this country.

The Boston Garden most charitably and enormously agreed to promote the Paolino-Maloney match

The terms were arranged so as the Christmas Fund will split fifty per cent of the net after the fighters are paid.

Everything fine and dandy—apparently.

In the meantime we went about arranging a Christmas Fund match at the Arena. Through Jack Conway, Eddie Mack yesterday agreed to go fifty-fifty with the Christmas Fund on the Sammy Fuller vs. Andy Callahan match at the Arena on Nov 17. Managers of both fighters agreed to accept ten per cent less than they originally signed for because of the Christmas Fund.

Everything fine and dandy—apparently.

WE WOKE UP

An hour after Eddie Mack had agreed to divide the Callahan Fuller proceeds with the Christmas Fund came a tinkle on the telephone. It was Dan Carroll

"Say, is Eddie Mack going to stage The Christmas Fund show?" he queried. Thinking Dan, manager of Maloney, meant the Maloney-Paolino bout we answered:

"Why no, not unless he has superseded Alex MacLean as matchmaker of the Boston Garden." was our reply, "and we haven't heard anything about that."

"Well they tell me," went on Dan, "that Mack is going to run the Christmas Fund Show."

"He has volunteered to run A Christmas Fund Show of his own," we replied, "but it has nothing to do with the Christmas Fund bout between Maloney and Paolino at the Garden. Mack is going to divide the proceeds of the Callahan Fuller bout at the Arena on November 17.

"What are you givin' us, the run around?" asked Carroll "I agreed to let Maloney fight Paolino for The Christmas Fund. There never has been but one Christmas Fund show in Boston. Now you are putting on another ahead of us and calling it The Christmas Fund Show, too. Maloney ain't goin' to stand for that. HE agreed to box for The Christmas Fund and on reasonable terms too. There can't be two Christmas Fund shows."

That's the way matters stand fans. That's how this amateur Tex Rickard has "gummed the works."

Maybe you can tell us whether we have one show, or two shows, or no shows at all. We ourselves are going around in circles emitting agonized peeps—and a few mansized cusses as well.

If it was for ourselves we would chuck it up. But the poor, the needy, the hungry, the freezing, the jobless who will be looking for the food, the clothes, the warmth, the jobs, the Xmas Fund will provide. How about them—oh, how about them?

Looks as if we still would have to keep on Tex Rickarding The poor, the needy, the aged, the sick will not let us quit But say, that certainly is a dirty when a feller needs a friend.

Whitney's Son to Take Father's Place

New York, Oct 31 (AP)—"Sonny" Whitney, son of the late Harry Payne Whitney, today applied to the Jockey Club for permission to race thoroughbreds under his father's Eton blue and brown topped silks.

In making the application "Sonny", who is better known as a polo player than a lover of thoroughbred racing, said he intended to continue the breeding and racing interests of his father, who died Sunday. Young Whitney also said he would start Equipoise, the ace of the stable, in the Pimlico Futurity, Nov. 7.

DIXON TO START FOR EAGLES

The Golden Avalanche eleven from Marquette University arrived here today in the pink of condition for the game with Boston College at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon.

Only one member of the team, Bob Elliott, is out on account of an injury and the others are fit and eager for the battle

In the three games played between the two institutions Marquette has a two to one advantage But with both teams pointing to the game to determine whether the season has been a success or failure, it is expected to be one of the hardest fought engagements of the year

Marquette is striving to keep the slate clean for the entire season and the Eagles are bending all their efforts to keep from falling into defeat again. Whereas the Golden Avalanche has won its five games and has been scored on only once, the Eagles have been defeated by Fordham and Villanova.

Coach Joe McKenney announced his starting lineup today. As was expected, it consisted of a mixture of veterans and substitutes

The fact that Capt. John Dixon is a certain starter has improved Boston College's chances for victory

The other victim was Joe Parkes of Crete, Neb. He was knocked out by Louis Dunkak, Nebraska freshman football star, and was carried from the ring with a brain concussion.

Marquette Coach in Broadcast Tonight

Frank J. Murray, Tufts College Alumnus and present head coach of the University of Marquette football team will broadcast this evening at 6 15 o'clock over Station WNAC and WEAN

Navy Drops Duke From 1931 Schedule

Annapolis, Oct. 31 (INS)—Duke which beat the Navy this fall will not be on the Middies' 1931 schedule of football games, it announced today Western Reserve was named in place of Duke but it was announced the defeat had nothing to do with dropping of Duke

University of Delaware was substituted for George Washington the other games remaining the same this year.

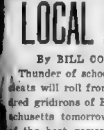
Schools Meet in Mid-Season Grid Tests Tomorrow

CHOICE TILTS OFFERED TO LOCAL FANS

By BILL CONNELL

Thunder of schoolboy football cleats will roll from half a hundred gridirons of Eastern Massachusetts tomorrow when some of the best games of the year are carded for the schoolboy football followers.

Newton at Medford, Malden at Brockton, Salem at Peabody, Somerville at Everett and Cambridge Latin at Brookline are a few of the more choice sections of each schoolboy games on the list.



Bill Connell

Brookline and Somerville, tied for the lead of the Suburban League, are favored to win in their respective games. Tom Fitzgerald has given Brookline a fast eleven this year, despite his early season prospects for the club. Hootstein, Timmons and McGrail are good Brookline backs. The line is strong with Charley Naylor, center, outstanding in his all-around play. Woieck, an end, is capable.

Cambridge Latin has had a rough time this fall, with a stiff schedule and only a light, inexperienced squad. The Cantabs have courage enough for a squad twice their size and weight and will give Brookline a fight right up to the closing whistle.

Somerville Slight Favorite to Defeat Everett

Somerville will be a slight favorite over Everett because of the stamp of the latter team a couple of weeks back. Somerville, which lacked scoring snap early in the year, defeated Newton on Monday and appeared to have sufficient power to capture the Suburban league crown.

Everett expects to have Capt. Goldstein and Stein back in the line, and in good shape tomorrow. The seven receptures the boys had at the opening of the campaign it is quite capable of sending the Somerville team back home with a league loss on its record.

Both Everett eleven will be led for the Suburban league lead, with four points apiece. As a victory for Everett could put this team in second place or first place and a win for Cambridge Latin would lift that team out of the cellar, Brookline and Somerville will be facing the toughest games of this season.

Malden goes to Brockton with hopes of holding their title rich even despite Brockton's powerful line and Pileski and La Franchise, brilliant backfield weapons. Brockton has one of the finest teams of the season. Malden is in for a stiff game as has been dated on the very difficult Malden schedule.

Medford Team Confident of Win Over Newton

Newton has been coming along after a slow start, but has only a poor chance with the fighting and now offensively effective Medford group. The win over Salem gave Medford renewed confidence. Medford now hopes to go through the rest of the season without a defeat.

Salem, fighting mad after losing to Medford, will try to crush Peabody. Peabody is no setup for the Witches though, and should make Salem step its best.

Lynn English, one of the few major teams which remains unbeaten and untied, is doped as victor over Beverly, but faces something of an unknown quantity in the Beverly eleven. This latter team has many veterans and a heavy eleven when at full strength, yet has had a poor year to date.

Captain Timmy Holland, Beverly captain and star back, will be in the lineup against English and will try to direct his eleven to a win if Beverly can play the football it hoped for earlier this year. Lynn English must throw at the varied offense into the game to snatch the award.

Fitchburg Expects to Keep Record Clean

Fitchburg, an unbeaten team, entertains Gardner and is likely to defeat the visiting group.

Tommy Murphy sends his Rindge Tech team against Lawrence. Tony Sarausky, Rindge back, will give Lawrence a lot of trouble.

Molly Adzigian of Stoneham, great little halfback, runs against Gloucester today. Gloucester's big job will be to stop the Stoneham flash.

Haverhill at Waltham, Quincy at Lynn Classical, Watertown at Arlington and Marblehead at Newburyport are other tilts which will draw the fans.

Harvard 2nd's Like Their Football

Harvard's second team chose to play Amherst rather than see the first team battle Dartmouth.

Schmeling Would Fight Dempsey for Milk Fund

Berlin, Oct. 31 (US)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, today decided that he will defend his title in the United States in 1931 for the benefit of the New York Milk Fund.

It was the Milk Fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman, which sponsored the bout in which Max was fouled into the title by Jack Sharkey.

Schmeling approved the stand taken by his American manager, Joe Jacobs, who has just arrived in Berlin. In stating that he will fight only under the auspices of the Milk Fund, and in refusing to extend the option on his services held by the Madison Square Garden Corporation Schmeling declared:

"I will fight wherever the Milk Fund signs the championship bout. If the Madison Square Garden people make it impossible to defend my title in New York, I'm willing to go to Chicago.

"Like Jacobs, I feel that the Garden's option is unfair, and anyway, it is because of the Milk Fund that I'm where I am today. It was the Milk Fund that made me the outstanding contender through the Paulino Uzcudun fight and champion through the Sharkey fight.

"I intend to remain loyal to the Milk Fund, and it is for its benefit that I will be ready to fight the challenger who is out standing next May.

"If Dempsey intends to return, he'll get first crack at me."

Max laughingly remarked that evidence of his being in the best of condition is the fact that he is entering the Berlin ping-pong championship next week.

Jacobs Says Stribling or Dempsey Get Next Shot

Jacobs added his weight to Max's decision, asserting

"Max has approved my stand that the championship will take place in June for the Milk Fund, and if the Garden interferes, George Getz is ready to help us go to Chicago.

"Stribling is at present the best challenger, and if he is still as good next year, he'll get a chance to fight Max unless Dempsey tries a comeback.

"Max is going to leave for America in the middle of December to go to Hollywood and make a talkie, for which he a getting $250,000. Then he'll tour the southern and eastern states until May, when he'll start training."

Tiger Pilot to Rebuild Team

Eddie Powers, manager of the Boston Tigers, had not been in town many hours before he announced that he would pretty thoroughly rebuild the local Can-Am entry before the start of the fifth campaign next week.

Despite the fact that the Tigers reached the finals in the play-off for the Fontaine Cup last winter, new faces aplenty will appear in the 1930-31 roster.

Herb Rheaume, Ponzi Contant Eddie Oatman, Reg Mills, Clark Heyd, Sonny Manning, Dutch Osborne and Deacon Waite—all members of one or more Tiger teams—will not be on deck this winter.

In their places will be a highly promising crop of new comers, whom Powers hopes to weld onto the remaining veterans—Yip Foster, Reg Mackey, Eddie Burke, Yank Boyd and Johnny Loucks.

In an effort to strengthen the defense, last year's weak link, George V. Brown has purchased for the Tigers the defense trio of the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League in its entirety. Ilas Winkler, Brunt's goalie two years ago, since then with Minneapolis and Seattle, will probably succeed Rheaume, though Frenchy LaCroix former B. A. A. and Canadiens, is also working out. Dangerous Dan Daly and Art Townsend, the rough and tough points on the Seattle club, are also here, and with Foster and Mackey should give the Tigers one of the stiffest defenses in the circuit.

Strength, too, has been added up forward, largely through the acquisition of leading Ontario players—Rollie Conacher, Art Black, Fred Ingram, Cecil Brown and Art Mackie—all reputed fast, clever and goal-getting

Medford-Malden Officials Say Price Boost Necessary

"Raising the Malden-Medford game tickets to $2 each was a necessary move, considering finances," said Thornton Jenkins, Malden headmaster, today.

"After all, if the people do not care to patronize the game because of the $2 tickets, we will go back to the old price of $1, another year. I hope this will not be the case for our building program at the field necessitates the $2 tickets for the Thanksgiving Day game.

"As far as $1 tickets for the game, for certain sections of the field, are concerned, nothing has been done yet."

Ralph L. Kendall, Medford high faculty manager of athletics, said regarding the $2 tickets

"The matter was agreed on mutually by the representatives of the schools. For many years the tickets have been priced at $1 for the Thanksgiving game, although, in the same period, cost of outfitting has gone from about $10 to between $40 and $50 per boy.

"All these things cost a lot of money and as we are working to build a good athletic program the raise in price was unavoidable. In another year, after people become accustomed to the new price, no one will think of commenting on it."

Bruins-Springfield to Play for Charity, Nov. 8

National Hockey League rules permit teams to uniform 15 players and the goalie this season and it seems almost certain that the Bruins will take advantage of that and start the season with 16 men surely and possibly more.

Manager Art Ross is not thinking of making any cut in his big squad now. He wants to see all the players in scrimmages, and he plans next week to have a series of testing workouts which will determine the qualifications of all the players.

Naturally, three-quarters of the squad which wears Bruin colors will be composed of veterans. Ross has a strong nucelus of veterans to start with. Tiny Thompson in goal, Eddie Shore and Capt. Hitchman and George Owen on defense, and the first and second lines of a year ago are available again.

Scrimmages Next Week to Decide Bruin Lineup

The scrimmages next week and the exhibition game arranged between the Bruins and the Springfield team of the Canadian-American League will determine the rest of the squad which will be uniformed for the opening game with the New York Americans on Nov. 11 at the Boston Garden.

The Bruins-Springfield game will be played at the Garden on Nov 8, and will be for the Traveler's Aid Society, which plans a real hockey night. The teams will play a regulation 60 minute game, and there probably will be fancy skating exhibitions between the periods.

A day of rest was ahead of the Bruins today, but they will be back on the ice tomorrow and Sunday. The first scrimmage probably will take place on Monday when the squad works out for the first time at the Garden.

Hank Bruder Gets Good Luck Charms

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 31 (AP)—Just out of the pesthouse after an attack of smallpox, the third manifestation of the jinx that has pursued him for three years, Hank Bruder, Northwestern's brilliant halfback and captain, today had four horseshoes and a rabbit's foot to keep trouble away from him before the important Minnesota game tomorrow.

As Bruder was on his way yesterday to join the squad for the trip to Minneapolis and the game with the Gophers, a trio of pretty co-eds popped up with the hoodoo-preventers.

"Hey, Hank," they purred, "these ought to break up the jinx of that number 13 jersey you are wearing."

The Purple leader, injured in 1928, laid up with a fractured leg last year, and a victim of smallpox this year, took the gifts, seemingly confident that no more bad luck could catch up with him.

SHERRY VICTOR OVER PLESTINA

Jack Sherry, Ohio, defeated Mario Plestina, Chicago, in the feature mat bout at the Boston Arena, winning two straight falls. The first was registered in 32 10 and the second in 7 32.

In the semifinal Rosario Impellitier, the young giant from Cold Springs, N. Y., met John Grandovitch of New York city. Impellitier won the match in six minutes and 17 seconds with a leg whirl.

The third bout saw a clever match between Louis Levac of France, making his first appearance in the country, and Count Leo Pyrros, Greece. Clever wrestling marked the encounter, both men being willing to mix it and each setting out of tight places. The bout went 20 minutes to a draw.

Tony Gust of Lynn and Young Leo Wycoff of St. Louis University The college man was the more aggressive, with Gust trying such tactics as pulling hair and using his elbows. Wycoff obtained an airplane whirl and slam at the five-minute mark and nailed Gust.

In the first bout, Tony Rocco of New York and George Mack of Chicago went to a draw in 20 minutes.

Former College Grid Stars to Play Sunday

Two great former college backs "Fish" Ellis and Dave Guarnaccia, will oppose each other Sunday when the Fittons of East Boston and Dilboy play at Dilboy Field, Somerville. "Fish" Ellis of Tufts is playing with Dilboy and Dave Guarnaccia of Harvard is with the Fittons.

Both teams will be at their full strength for the game, each with a fast backfield Dilboy will have Ellis, Eddie Melanson, all-America at Villanova last year; Larry Lowery and Paul Kittredge of Holy Cross, Charley Hingston of Tufts and Irving Plummer and Bud Elgerly of Medford.

The Good Islanders will start an all-Harvard backfield of Maddy Sayles, Tom "Giddyap" Giligan, Howie Burns and Guarnaccia, holding Rusty Yarnell, great triple threat artist, in reserve.

Billy Banker Now Playing as Pro

Billy Banker, Tulane's former "blond blizzard" halfback, after a trial, laid up with a knee is playing professional football with the Memphis Tigers.

Upsets Mark School League Soccer Tilts

Several upsets occurred in the Boston intermediate schools' soccer league games, the most notable being the defeat of the Oliver W. Holmes eleven by the Lewis team, the latter winning, 1 to 0, at Franklin Park.

Another surprise was the 4 to 0 defeat handed the Henry L. Pierce eleven by the Bennet eleven at Brighton.

Michelangelo remain undefeated by virtue of their 2 to 0 victory over the Abraham Lincoln eleven on the Common, and already they are jacked to win the league title.

Michelangelo 2, Abraham Lincoln 0
Theodore Roosevelt 2, F. L. Thompson 0.
Lewis 1, Oliver W. Holmes 0.

Jamaica and Latin Elevens Winners

Jamaica Plain chalked up another win, defeating Roxbury Memorial, 6 to 0, and Latin nosed out Trade, 6 to 0, in the Boston schoolboy doubleheader in the Fens.

Jamaica scored in the second period when it brought the ball to the three-yard line on a series of line plunges, and Capt. Paul Walsh went over for the touchdown.

Arnold Wesner, Latin halfback, grabbed a forward pass and dashed off 30 yards for a few yards to score over Trade in the third period.

Bowdoin Is Set to Face Bates Eleven

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 31—A light session today will top off Bowdoin's preparation for the clash with Bates at Lewiston tomorrow. The men are all in the best of condition and are looking forward to the coming game with determination to avenge the defeat at the hands of the Colby team last week.

The opening whistle probably will find Capt. George Souther at left end with King Crumbine on the other wing. Doc Brown doubtless will be at left tackle, while Bob Ecke will be at his regular place in right tackle. John Milliken will be in the pivot position, and he will be flanked on the right by Harry Pollock, and on the left by Reino Olsen.

In the backfield, Catchell will be calling the signals, while Lloyd Morrill at fullback, Sid Foster at left half, and Jit Ricker at right half, complete the backfield.

Fordham Star Out of W. Virginia Tilt

Coach Ira Rodgers's team, which has never been beaten in New York city in five games played here, possesses especially a fine forward passing attack, according to Hiker Cavanaugh, assistant scout, who saw the Southerners in action against Duquesne, which they downed, 7–0.

Thayer Academy Wins 7th Victory

Thayer Academy football team won its seventh game, defeating Tufts seconds, 21 to 7, at Braintree.

McCarthy, the home team's right half, proved the star of the game. He made one of the winning touchdowns, booted three of the points after touchdowns and ran back punts consistently for long gains.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

Some of you, particularly you shooters who go over a hundred, instead of thinking of stopping your hands even with the line, bring them on through the line. This will of necessity have to think of some of the things that cause you to turn your body instead of pivoting. Opening away the club face at the start of the back swing is one thing that does it. This starts the club at a pare too fast. The left arm at once projects outward, then your entire body turns to follow it—and you have the perfect body turn. This opening of the blade, and the outward projection of the left arm, also throws your swing immediately out of its plane. Keep your left wrist in its address position. Move both hands toward your right trousers pocket, with clubhead kept low. Keep the left arm in close. Then, as your hands reach the point parallel with a line toward the flag, they will go upward until your left shoulder draws underneath. This winds you up completely. It is the natural action really easy to do.

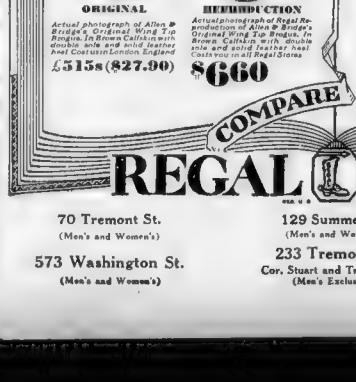
A New Design in an English Brogue



ALLEN & BRIDGE, famous London Bootmakers, told us that this new "fully-brogued," hand-punched, perforated Wing Tip Model was their most popular design, and showed us their Customers' Book to prove it.

We reproduced this new design exactly—Style, Pattern, Last and Leather. They used Gallun's Vegetable tanned Calfskin—we are using the same identical tannage.

Every hole in the elaborately perforated pattern was punched by hand with an awl. We made a die and with one click of a machine reproduced the Design exactly.

Now how can we prove to you we can reproduce this $27.90 hand made English Brogue for $6.60?

I can't think of any way to make it easier for you or more difficult for us than to buy the Original $27.90 shoe in London and show it to you in our windows with the Regal Reproduction for $6.60.

Paris, Oct 31—These are the days that keep social gathering places such as Ciro's and the Ritz busy with dinner dances and parties. The fact that these two centers of fashionable gayety arrange to have their galas on different nights enables the active elite to take full advantage of their opportunities.

The haunts on Montmartre are also crowned with their popularity undiminished as far as the international fashionables are concerned. Many scramble to get into Monseigneur's to complete the nightly round on the the mound. For the fashionable round this year one starts dining at the Ritz, Ciro's, or Michodiere's, then proceeds to Monseigneurs or Florence's, and closes the hectic evening at Brick Tops with ham and eggs or a ham supper.

MAHARANEE HOSTESS

At Ciro's this week, the Baron and Baroness Dalmeida entertained in honor of Lady Louis Montbatten. The hostess wore a printed chiffon. Lady Louis Montbatten was in a black crepe de chine with two ropes of pearls as ornaments.

The Maharanee Kapurthala entertained a large party, sitting at the head of the table in her national costume of blue with a pink shawl over her head. Her guests included Mrs. Perry Belmont in a red chanel gown, and Mrs. J. T. Fulman, who wore dark blue lace and chiffon.

Lord Rothermere was the guest of honor at a large dinner party. guests at which included Mrs. John Crews, who looked very attractive in a white gown which set off her wonderful collection of emerald necklace, brooch and rings.

GAYNA AT THE RITZ

Two former Washingtonians were seen at the Ritz this week. Mrs. Eugene Villaret, the former Abigail Harvey wore a blue lace evening gown with blue net godets reaching to the ankles. Matching this were her shoes and bag. H. R. H. the Duchess de Nemours, the former Peggy Watson, wore a white satin gown with an even waist, and attached just below the left shoulder a round onyx and diamond pin. A black and white hat and black satin shoe completed the costume.

At the Ritz also was Madame Ganna Walska McCormick in a cream and white satin gown with a full draping skirt. She carried a black lace fan and wore black shoes. This seems to be the favorite style of dress these days.

Mrs. Amscott Wilson wore a black chiffon and lace contrasting with her blonde hair. On jewelry she wore a large diamond ring.

Woman Suffrage Elevated Politics, Gillett Says

By NANCY BREWSTER

Woman suffrage has elevated politics, Senator Frederick H. Gillett told the members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts at a luncheon in his honor at the Copley-Plaza. He said he favored a return to the convention system rather than the primaries.

Republican leaders, men and women, met at the Back Bay hostelry to honor the man who retires next March after 40 years of public service and to add their nit to the verbal tribute which made the occasion gala.

MRS. PARKER PRESIDES

Presided over by Miss Catherine Voss Parker, president of the club, the luncheon was headed by Governor Allen, who too lauded the achievements of Senator Gillett advising the Republicans in attendance that these principles for which Senator Gillett fought valiantly for in the past were the principles of the Republican party itself.

After several short addresses made by Lieutenant-Governor William S. Youngman, William M. Butler senatorial candidate; Joseph E. Warner, attorney-general, Senator Gillett, rose to the occasion, facetiously sported with the many commendatory words bestowed upon him and then pounced into a verbal attack on the Democratic party for its "false appraisal of Republican virtues."

In his 40 years of public service, he explained, two great changes impressed him. First, the granting of suffrage to women and the primaries.

OPPOSED WOMAN SUFFRAGE

"I was always opposed to woman suffrage," the Senator stated. "Of course, I recognized it abstractly. There was really no argument against the principle. But I felt it would result in disastrous diversions for women. But I confess my experience and my observations compel me to admit that in giving suffrage to women, politics have been elevated.

"In the past 10 years I have found that women in politics have worked for the common good of the people and have been actuated by idealistic principles of government. They have been more unselfish than the men. They have not been interested in what they were going to get out of it. Their motives have been prompted for the public good. During this time the efficiency of women has been greater than that of the men. I hope it won't wear off. I hope it won't be considered a novelty. It is a good thing, and only for the country, but for the Republican party.

PRIMARY A FAILURE

"The next great and important change is the primary. I favored it at first, but as I watched it operate I have changed my mind and I must now state that I favor a return to convention methods."

As for President Hoover, the senator said he never knew so much hard luck to follow any one individual as has pursued the president since his taking office.

Those at the head table included Mrs. Frederick H .Gillett, Mrs. William M. Butler, Mrs. William S Youngman, Mrs. Franklin W Hobbs, Mrs. Frank Roe Batchelder Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, Mrs Nathaniel Thayer, Secretary of State Frederick E. Cook Samuel Abrams, Cong. Charles L. Underhill, Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth, Cong. A. Piatt Andrews Cong. Frederick E. Dallinger and Cong. Robert Luce.

WHITE'S THRIFT BASEMENT

FLYING FIRM FORMED BY CROWLEY

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

A new flying company, formed by two of the most popular members of commercial flying activities in Greater Boston, was announced today.

The company, to be known as the Boston Air Service, is composed of Frank C. Crowley, "Lucky 13" of air mail fame, and George Barry, former barnstorming barker.

According to Crowley, the company will deal solely in advanced instruction, cross-country flights of all kinds at any hour of the day and night, photography, [illegible] ovans and ablique, and local joy flights.

VETERAN PILOT

Crowley, whose experience in flying began in the Aviation Air Corps in 1917, when he learned to fly, has well over 5000 hours t his credit, and is looked upon as being one of the best all-weather pilots in this section.

The entrance of these two boys was welcomed by everyone connected with commercial flying in this vicinity.

Charles Grossman, 19, and Willard Overton, 20, advanced students of Roosevelt Flying School, ended their cross-country flight at Boston Airport after a little more than three hours of flying from the Long Island Flying field. Both pilots, holding private licenses, flew Fleet training biplanes, and left here after a short visit in the city.

MADE FAST TIME.

Covering the distance between Springfield and Boston in 30 minutes, C. H. McAleer, head of the polish company, landed at Boston airport to attend the annual meeting of the dealers and distributors tonight at the Hotel Kenmore.

McAleer arrived in his Lockheed Vega cabin monoplane, piloted by Capt. Russell Young, and was accompanied by Martin A. Dowey and R. H. Spinney, Springfield automobile dealer.

"While the Springfield-Boston distance has been flown faster than the time made by the "Miss McAleer," it is believed the seven passenger plane set a record for its class.

New England dealers and their friends will be taken for rides over the city today and tomorrow, and the plane will leave for Detroit on Sunday.

Earl Boardman, brother of Russell Boardman, has purchased a Travel Air biplane formerly owned by Mel Dorr, of Raymonds. Boardman flew the ship to Hartford, while Bentley Broome ferried the Waco owned by Sound Airways of New Bedford, in which Earl arrived here, to its home field. Earl has been hiring ships from Sound Airways ever since he learned to fly, almost a year ago, and bought the Travel Air when he decided he'd want more advantageous to own a plane.

Velvet Gets the Vote for Popularity

By ANN ARDEN

VELVET HAS a very definite place in the new scheme of things, for the whole trend of fashion demands luxurious and beautiful clothes, and no fabric is more able to interpret this feeling than velvet.

* * *

WHEN A GARMENT rates high on more than one count, then it is indeed a prize—and the semi formal coat pictured can both be and do many things for you. Of black velvet, its large shawl collar is of fluffy, creamy badger fur, as are the cuffs set on—with practical forethought—somewhere above the wrist. The tie belt is of the velvet. The moulded lines and contrasting fur of this coat make it singularly becoming and chic. The hat is of black velvet, pressed to resemble chenille, draped to a long backline, and held with clip of brilliants

* * *

WORN WITH a frock of black velvet, this coat would achieve a stunning ensemble; or a creamy beige frock might be chosen, complimenting the fur; while a dress of vivid red would form an arresting contrast.

* * *

NEEDLESS TO say, the most perfect compliment for the velvet costume is the velvet hat. You will encounter no difficulty in finding a becoming one, either. Little off-the-forehead models, without a hint of brim, are most dashing. Or, if you like, you can go fetchingly brimmed.

* * *

NOT ONLY are black and colors smart in the fall velvet hat—but white, too! Are you startled? It does seem rather a departure, but the vogue for light and dark contrast has brought the white hat to the fore. Plumes of fur, or fur trimmed hats are stepping into the fashion spotlight, too.

* * *

WITH FUR appearing in abundance on frocks and coats alike, it was inevitable that fur hats would make a successful debut this winter. Any number of charming models are being made in the more supple furs. A beret in lapin and a black caracul hat of Russian inspiration were seen recently. Skull caps and unusual hoods are also made up in fur with smart results.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Stadium WHDH.

GANGSTER GIRL -:- By Jack Lait

"Bacon an' eggs for one—have the bacon crisp, boiled eggs for me, as usual; buttered toast—coffee—an' we start with orange juice—not too chilled—step on it."

Pete didn't answer. He just went. Silk Freeman turned to Polack Annie.

The sun was high and red outside but in this room there was no sun. There were no windows in the Park ave. apartment of the Big Boy. The servants' entrance was sealed with cement. It was a furnished vault. Here the regal racketeer was at home—here he sucked his opium pipe and tallied up the daily gross and spread himself. Here murder and mischief were conceived within these sunlightless walls than in any other metropolis in the city of grift and graft. Here Silk Freeman worked and played.

"Annie," he heaved, "the bad babies in Chi that blew to h—ll for you can smile in their graves. I followed 'em all, an' I hand 'em a hend," and Freeman bowed from the waist. "They done some perfect pickin'. You made the big time. Now you're Silk's woman. Gee, honey, I never thought I'd go goofy over any p'tickar brond. But to me one hair o' your red 'ead is stronger than the Atlantic cable . . . do you understand what I'm sayin' Silk Freeman? I'm in love, you damn fool! Freeman—F-r-e-e-m-a-n—B. B— hockey! Goin' college boy over a twist".

"Speakin' o' college boys, Silk," ventured Annie, "did you say that young Gillespie boy was out o' Harvard?"

"Uale!" snapped Freeman. "What in the h—ll made you think o' him—at a moment like —?"

"Oh—nothin'—jus' you mentioned college—an' it was you told me he come out o' one"—

"Aw—yeh? Well 'college' an' 'coffin' start wit' the same letter, Cl See? You're puttin' the finger on that thick brick mick. What's the idee, blurbin' about him when you're wit' ME? How'd you like a swell bust in the breeze?"

"No—Big Boy—act your position. Sure, you can ghoul me. But what's the victry in that? . . . you was jus' tellin' me how much you cared for me"—

"So I do. An' cut out ravin about that yellow-headed punk. I told you I'm gonna racket his ol' man a business. Biff Glasson is out right now moppin' up the details. But—from the firs' minute I met his eye in that dinner joint he played like I was the Princeton team, or somethin' I was only go to muscle in—now I'm goin' to wreck those Gillespies . . . of all mornin's, this mornin' you could concentrate a little on Freeman. What is this rash you're nursin about that sucker?"

Polack Annie tried to keep the color from coming up in her sensitive cheeks. She was helpless broke and in between.

"Silk," she breathed, "you're like a high school kid. Jealous? Peevish! Aren't you proud o' yourself, a big shot like you, owning a woman and scared yellow because she talks about a stooge? Silk, I'm s'prised at you."

Freeman picked up a vase off the dresser and poised it over his head to crown this impudent upstart with. But he let it come down limply. He deposited it there. He crossed to the bed, knelt on the rug, slid an arm around Polack Annie's neck, held her peachy, soft cheek against his kissed the corner of her crimson mouth, and said boyishly.

"I'm gonna be a baby sister to her rough sweetie-man? Maybe he's talkin' up out o' turn. If he is, it's becus he's woopy-woopy, goofy goofy over me. It's woman w noin . . . Does she forgive the big beast?"

Annie sensed her advantage. She loathed the swine. But she spoke the said

"Light me a smoke, Silk."

He looked at her quizzically. Then he lighted a cigarette.

"Here," he said, heavily, and he inserted the cigarette into her deadly mouth. "You hate my guts—an' I know it. But I'm nuts about you, fire-top. Take a lungful o' that. No other woman ever heard me pull that kind o' speech."

"No other woman ever will, Big Boy, I'm dynamite. When they're through with me, their pals are sayin' prayers over 'em. Now—sit down—I've put up with just about enough. You want me to breeze out o' here?"

Silk Freeman backed up. He looked at her, seriously, concentratedly.

"I don't know, beautiful," he said.

"Don't know—what?"

"Don't know whether to kiss you or kill you."

There was a knock on the door. Polack spoke

"Yes, Chief," he said, "here's the breakfast."

"The h—ll with breakfast," shouted Freeman, "Can't I have some privacy in my own home?"

JOBLESS 'REDS' FACE GUNS AND GAS

Sacramento, Oct. 31 (AP)—Extra police, manning machine guns and carrying tear gas bombs, guarded the downtown district here today, as a precaution against the threatened bombing of employment agencies by Communists and jobless.

Seven communists, including Mike Daniels, district organizer, were arrested last night and accused of intimidating employment agency proprietors and forcing them to return money they had collected from men applying for jobs.

The entire police force was called on duty at headquarters after several brawls had occurred in the streets. Arrest of the seven followed a series of visits on a number of employment agencies by groups of communists and unemployed men. The agency managers said the men had forced them to return deposits placed by job applicants. Arrests were made after the agency managers identified the seven men as those who had threatened to "bomb" them.

It was said at communist headquarters that a new meeting place, including a large hall, had been rented and would be used beginning today.

BROKEN HEART IS FATAL TO 'LA CORONELA'

By RICHARD C. WILSON

Mexico City, Oct. 31—The mysterious "La Coronela," one of the very few women ever to hold the rank of an officer in a Mexican army, is dead from a broken heart.

The beautiful titian haired colonel died without revealing the story of her life. Only her name, Sara Recamier, was learned.

She appeared one day on a battlefield. Then, before the commander of the rebels she insisted upon joining the forces. Her flaming hair and beautiful face attracted the general and she was admitted to the rebel ranks with the title of "La Coronela."

She became known to the soldiers as the woman who "smiled at death and laughed at love."

After the revolution the mysterious feminine colonel vanished into obscurity with a good supply of gold. Recently when she began appearing daily at a small restaurant in Tacubaya, a suburb of Mexico city, she was still beautiful, but apparently almost penniless.

One day a fashionably dressed young woman walked by the restaurant, gave a passing glance at "La Coronela," and went on her way.

The amazon turned to an acquaintance and said, "There goes my daughter. She snubbed me because I am broke."

A moment later a waitress found her dead.

Hard Winter Ahead, Says 'Bossy', So No Wife for Him

Newburyport, Oct. 31—Mayor Andrew J. ("Bossy") Gillis, arriving home today from his mysterious journey, denied he was married, although somehow or other it didn't sound convincing.

And Miss Louise Barbaro of Orange st., whom he was expected to wed, also arrived home today. Her denial echoed Bossy's.

"With a hard winter coming on, I can't be bothered with a wife," said the mayor with a laugh.

"Who was the girl you was seen with up in Canada?" he was asked.

"My cousin," he replied.

WALES TO TOUR SOUTH AMERICA NEXT YEAR

London, Oct. 31 (AP)—The prince of Wales, in his role of traveling salesman for England, will cover much of the territory visited by President Hoover on his South American tour in a trip which His Royal Highness will undertake early next year.

The royal heir's complete itinerary, and the date of his departure both are still subject to change, Sir Geoffrey Thomas, private secretary, said at Saint James' Palace today.

Castoria...for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

He Is Nineteen and Very Shy, But She Likes the Boy 'For a' That'

She Might Be Timid Herself

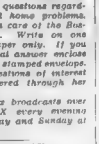
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you want a personal answer enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily column.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6.35 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I never had any sisters, which is perhaps the reason that I'm such a "fraid" when going are about. I just gape and gawk and haven't a word to say for myself, or I roar with laughter from sheer nervousness. The other day, I wrote a note to a girl and asked if I might call; being too scared to ask her person; She wrote back that I could. Dear Miss Fairfax, I feel as if I were going to be hung—what must I do, what must I talk about?



Beatrice Fairfax

SCARED SAM

Dear Sam: Please remember if the girl didn't want to see you she wouldn't have written you that note and invited you to call. You're that much to the good, my dear Sam, and if the truth were known she's probably a little scared herself. Suppose before you go you look at a newspaper—and look it over. Then talk about the movies, sports and the things that appear in the different departments. You might suggest dancing as a means you might go down town, you live in a big city—and go window shopping.

What's Wrong With Her?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What's wrong with me? I am considered good looking, tall and slim, good taste in clothes and wear them well. I am not one of your usual 17-year-old girls. I am 32 but still young. I travel with a jolly, but not fast crowd, between the ages of 21 and 27 and am never invited any older than they are. No one will believe me when I tell them how old I am. The real trouble is I can't get a boy friend. I dance, play cards, don't smoke because I don't like it, take a drink when I feel like it, and neck sometimes but not often.

I was engaged twice, before I was 28, but broke off because my parents objected—now I'm sorry because all I want is someone to love and a home of my own.

LONESOME BABS.

Dear Babs: In the first place, my dear Babs, if you don't look or feel any older than the group you go with, it's a great mistake to keep insisting that you're 32, when the rest are five or six years younger. When a girl does that she unconsciously forces herself into the ancient and honorable order of spinsterhood. Forget you're any older than the others and let them forget it, too. There is a tried and true recipe for a girl who is perhaps too deep-y rooted in her environment to go away to another city for a visit—haven't you some sisters, cousins, or aunts that you could visit—being careful to leave that legend of 32 at home.

What's in Fashion?

Old Fashions for Modern Types

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Demure or sophisticated . . . which are you going to choose to be this Winter? And if you can't choose between them, you can be both. Because both are in fashion.

You're going to see many fashions that come under those headings this season. Fashions that make you feel young and quaint and maybe shy. Demure fashions that make you feel crisp and well set up and wise in the ways of the world. Sophisticated.

Sophisticated Fashions

If you choose to look sophisticated, one good way to do it is to go back 134 years for your costume.

The French revolution was accomplished. The Directorate was ruling France. Wars were being fought by the French in Egypt, and Napoleon's star was rising.

The modern background of 1796 influenced the costumes of both men and women. There was a distinct reaction from the elaborate court style of dress which was the fashion up to the Revolution.

Men and women both wore the redingote . . . a fitted coat with wide lapels, upstanding collar. It opened in a wide diagonal line over the skirt or trousers.

Redingote Adaptation

You see a sketch of the original Redingote in the illustration above. And at the right you see its modern adaptation . . . one of the best looking tailored costumes of 1930.

The wide rever collar echoes the wide lapels of the redingote. The double-breasted closing copies the buttoned closing of the Directoire coat. And the seaming in the skirt gives the same effect as the diagonal opening of the 1796 garment.

You'll find this Directoire feeling in many other dresses and in coats, too. Not always copying as exactly the original fashion. But almost always with the wide lapels, the upstanding collar and the double-breasted effect you see in this dress.

Demure Fashions

If you're going to be demure, you don't have to go back as far for your inspiration. Just 100 years. To 1830 and the reign of Louis Philippe of France.

Kings and queens and court life were in their heyday again. Women thought about elaborate clothes once more. Yards and yards of heavy silks were required for the full skirts and puffed sleeves that were seen at court affairs. And white shoulders gleamed in the candle light.

But remember—it takes lovely shoulders to wear it!

Ice Cream Fork Use Limited

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Are ice cream forks used for any other dessert besides ice cream?

2. Where is the ice cream fork placed on the table, or is it brought in resting position on the dessert plate? A. E. R.

The ice cream fork is a particularly specialized piece and is really a one-usage fork. I think that any other use to which this fork would be put would much better be served with a teaspoon or a 5 o'clock teaspoon. Except, perhaps, as a serving-spoon for some kinds of relishes and jellies.

2. Correctly, the silver service for the dessert course is brought in with the dessert. Very often now we find both an ice cream fork and an ice cream spoon. The fork is placed on the left, and the spoon on the right. Then the guest may use both or either as he prefers. But it is just as correct to serve only the ice cream fork, if you prefer.

Sending Wedding Cake to Friends

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Is it too late to send wedding cake to friends if I have been married two months?

2—Should a card be enclosed in the regular wedding cake box with the date of marriage and who it is from?

The cake has kept well. It is a fruit cake. We have just returned from our honeymoon.

3—Should the box be tied with ribbon?

I think that sending the cake now would be ill-timed, or, rather out of order. Your friends would, I think, wonder what it is all about.

Instead of sending the cake now, since it is too late, I suggest that you have a tea some day, and serve the cake as the dessert course. Then you might even feature it as the wedding cake and it would not be observed in this way, seem so "real" as if you sent it to your friends.

The First Dance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

My husband took me to a dance, and we invited another couple to go with us. Was it proper for my husband to ask the other lady for the first dance—which left me to dance the first dance with her husband? J. F.

Yes.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette by readers.)

Baby Bandit Proves to Be 'Bad Man'

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE "BABY BANDIT" of Santa Ana, Calif., says he will not tell where the members of his gang are.

"If I split," said the Baby Bandit, "I'll be taken to the river and drowned."

Winifred Black

The "Baby Bandit" is 15 years old and robbed a dozen stores and farm houses in that county. And the other day they walked into a little grocery at a crossroad and held up the grocery-man and robbed his till.

The Baby Bandit had two guns—he pointed them both at the grocery-man.

"Throw 'em up," said the Baby Bandit, "or the gats will bark."

Four other members of the Baby Bandit's gang were armed with guns, or rods, as they call them.

Wouldn't he interestin to know just where they got their guns, how they got them and how often they have used them?

Or how often they have used other weapons?

I don't believe there is anything so much fun for a boy as to have a gun, unless it be to get regular drunk.

But their Fathers and Mothers are not a gang of abnormal people. I don't know which—

Or care either.

Whisper! Cross your heart now and tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Didn't you think it would be grand to be a highwayman when you were about nine years old and up to 15?

Wasn't it your favorite dream to put on a black mask and grab a "forty-four" in each of your terrifying fists and go and make the Sunday school superintendent give back your pennies, and the pennies of all the little boys who went to that Sunday school?

Own up now, honest and true, why didn't you do it?

Did some good Angel whisper to you that you might hurt the superintendent's feelings, or make your Mother cry or something?

Or did you know that the superintendent would yank your trusty "forty-four" out of your hand and turn you over his knee, and give you a good hard spanking?

And after that what would your father do to you when he got you into the woodshed, or up into the attic, while your mother was gone to help wait on the table at the supper of the Ladies Aid Society?

You knew you had some men to deal with when you did things that men didn't want you to do, and so you behaved yourself—till you were old enough to have some sense.

I wonder if we haven't "feminized" the world just a little bit too much with our "subnormal" and "abnormal" analysis, and our poor - darling - they - really-don't-know" system.

From the records of juvenile crime from one end of the country to the other, it begins to look as if something was really quite wrong somewhere.

Setting a Soft Wave in Dry Hair Enhances Charm

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

HERE'S THE grandest new dig for waving the hair, and you don't have to sit around for a long time waiting for your head to dry before setting the wave.

We all know that the hair does look lovely when it is first combed around the face that way, but quickly when it is allowed around the face that way, but quickly when it is set in waved contours. When waved set the hair does fall in the head and the ends, that is, the ends of the hair do not hang free. Instead they are pushed back into the waves and the whole effect is much smoother and softer.

Josephine Huddleston

Therefore by this new method the hair is shampooed and dried thoroughly. Warm bath towels obtain a quick drying and one can be placed on a hot radiator or in front of the oven to get warm while the one in use is being rubbed through the hair. This keeps a hot towel available so that make her look fresh and clean, by doing things that make her look foolish.

The most tragic moment of a woman's life is that time when she is forced to stand still and watch a man slowly but surely convalesce from his infatuation for her.

Just about the time when a woman needs all a man's moral support, her hair begins to turn gray, her ankles begin to grow fat, and her husband begins to turn foolish.

A happy wife is one who knows when to turn off the motor of her conversation, put the brake on her wit and tune off an argument.

Marriage does something miraculous to a man—but, it's a rare girl who can transform a cognomed Don Juan into a prosaic business-purpose, stay-furnace-and-coal-bill waiting husband, a man who can forget a birthday or a wedding anniversary, but who can remember a mere certificate over his head.

Many a man gives up on his marriage after the first week or so, a scrap of paper, a name, a date, a number.

The honeymoon is not over, however, until the first month, the first week, the first day, the first hour, the first minute, the first second of the honeymoon is over.

Moralizing With the Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

LOTS OF mothers shudder I contemplating the time whe their small child will have to brush elbows with every sort of person, and have tested the precepts she has been so careful to drum into his ears, hoping they will reach his brain and whole nature.

Constance Cameron

But, if the foundation has been laid, some, the child will be none worse for those contacts wh are unavoidable. And, too, it sometimes wise to plunge youngster into a new and po by confusing situation while can accompany him through t test. It is good, also (if you judgment), to comment casu on the point you want emp sized. Don't preach, but let good - common sense dict when to keep still and when throw in a comment, as did father I'm going to tell you about today.

Young Jack had been want to go with his dad to see a box match. Father was doubt There were rough men the Jack might hear, bad langu and "get" tough, like the b mother had so assiduously k young Jack away from.

"Bosh," said dad. "I want J to go to his first boxing ma with me." So they went.

Dad explained the sport as w as he could while short lefts a straights, hooks and infigh were going on before the you stars round eyes.

During a lull dad remembe something. It was the moth fear that Jack would hear thin he shouldn't in all the crowd stadium where the residents the small town were gather If there was one man there one happened to be seated direct ly in front of the two who w swearing and using language t which the mother could have objected. The others were absorb in watching the tactics of t boxers, getting excited and no at things to see, but not in a offensive way.

Dad thought it might be a go time to say something.

"Jack," he began, "aside fr this man in front of us, do y hear anyone swearing?"

The boys gaze swept the m of faces, he pulled one ear p tered to remember what done before during the evening.

"No," he answered after ca ful consideration. "He's the o one I've heard."

How does it strike you?" I quired the father. "Like t sound of it? Does it seem ne dark?

"No," replied the boy. Th he hesitated, trying to find t right word. "It's just enou kind of dumb doing it."

That was a negative examp but it was a good one. Jack learned that a fellow can be a regular guy and still not hav to resort to language wh might offend his mother, o any one of his mother's friends sophisticated men, whose mother feared weren't all th should be, did not swear. The men behaved possibly wit better taste than some of hir own friends at an afternoon bridge. Only one man swore, and do you think young Ja will try to be like him? I don

Gems From the Beauty Box for Milady

THE WITCH hazel compress is highly recommended for coarse pores and oily skin surface. Pour some witch hazel in a saucer, add a piece of ice. Dip in a good-sized piece of absorbent cotton and pace over the face, leaving a little door from which the nose can look out, so that breathing will not be interfered with. Leave on until the skin is steaming hot, then repeat. Does almost nothing and works wonders.

Hours of highly-energized conversation can create more fatigue bugs in the feminine system than a morning at the washtub. Few women realize the reaction of the nerves to prolonged jabbering and chattering. A sound, steady, nervous organization is vitally necessary to perfect health and has much to do with beauty. It is acquired by cultivating poise, restraint and an easy manner. Let the gabby talkers paste this paragraph on their mirrors. It is an idea worth keeping in mind.

The Rhyming Optimist

BEST OF JOYS

Of all the joys that is best
Wherewith to banish ills,
And from each loss to wrest
Some touch of triumph still;
It is the joy of him
Who beauty's self desires
And through life's temples dim
Gropes, seeking sacred fires

It is his joy who sees
What waits within the clay,
And with his deft touch frees
His dreams to greet the day
This joy the spirit thrills
When the skilled hand can trace
The sunset-bannered hills
The willows' fairy grace.

Ah, joy beyond compare,
This power that brings to light
Of beauty's self some share
For all the world's delight!

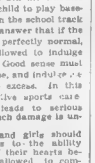
Use Care When You Adopt a Regular Exercise

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

NOT LONG ago it was my pleasure to be a spectator at one of the intercollegiate boat races. At the close of the race my joy changed to a feeling of concern and anxiety for the rowers. The splendid athletes, trained to perfection and who, undoubtedly were the very symbol of perfect health, appeared utterly exhausted. In fact, it was necessary to revive three of them with water. Rowing is without doubt the most severe of all sports and severely taxes the heart.



Dr. Copeland

Mothers often ask me whether it is safe for a child to play baseball, or to run on the school track team. I always answer that if the child's heart is perfectly normal, he should be allowed to indulge in such sports. Good sense must be used, of course, and indulgence must not be to excess. In this age of competitive sports care lessness often leads to serious damage. But such damage is unnecessary.

Young boys and girls should be examined as to the ability and strength of their hearts before they are allowed to compete in any strenuous sports. The preliminary test should not be the end of the examinations. Repeated tests, particularly after athletic games, should be made to see how well they stand the exertion. Upon the first sign of actual strain of the heart, the amount of exercise should be diminished.

In persons who have been trained to increase their athletic activities gradually, the heart stands the strain. Under these conditions no harm results. Much harm is done to the heart in individuals who assume with great suddenness the life and activities an athlete.

If you are desirous of doing athletic work first make sure that your heart is capable of doing the excessive work that such exercise demands. Secondly, increase the amounts of exercise slowly and gradually. This is important in adults and particularly important in children.

The competitive athlete fever in grammar school, high school and college is great. In the desire to win, all too often the individual is forgotten.

The most frequent advice given by physicians to elderly people is to get into the open and to take exercise. This is particularly true as regards the business man, who has either retired from his business or whose business no longer requires all his time. Such sports as mountain climbing, skiing, rowing, golf or tennis are often advised. Before undertaking any of these sports any man beyond the age of forty should have a careful examination made as to the condition of his heart, blood pressure and kidney function.

You may have a perfectly normal heart according to all the tests and yet not be fit for violent or suddenly adopted exercise of moderate severity. There must be preparation by gradual increase of activity.

Mrs. G. W. N. Q.—What would cause a little boy of six years of age to belch all the time and what would cause him to [illegible] in his [illegible]?

A.—Hyperacidity and indigestion would account for the former condition. Have a careful study made to determine whether or not the kidneys are involved. Your doctor will advise you.

Miss L. McL. Q.—What do you advise for dandruff?

A.—Careful and regular shampooing and the use of a good hair tonic should be generally helpful.

Courtship Is First Step to Alimony

By HELEN ROWLAND.

LATIN LOVERS may be the tenderest; but only an American gentleman can divorce his wife as tenderly as he courted her.

A good-natured man can fix up almost anybody except his wife and some women can be made more beautiful by a mere change of hairpins.

A happy wife is one who knows when to turn off the motor of her conversation, put the brake on her wit and tune off an argument.

Marriage is something miraculous to a man—but, it's a rare girl who can transform a cognomed Don Juan into a prosaic business-purpose, stay-furnace-and-coal-bill waiting husband, a man who can forget a birthday or a wedding anniversary, but who can remember a mere certificate over his head.

Many a man gives up on his marriage after the first week or so, a scrap of paper, a name, a date, a number.

The honeymoon is not over, however, until the first month, the first week, the first day, the first hour, the first minute, the first second of the honeymoon is over.

Turn the ends into tight little flat curls just as you would if the hair were bobbed and secure them with invisible hairpins. As soon as the hair is dry, brush and comb it out and you have a soft, fluffy wave that will last for four or five days.

[illegible] one ordinary tea kettle the amount of steam that [illegible] the spout will be sufficient and won't be dangerous. Turn the head from side to side and don't forget the back. At the end of five minutes, dispense with the steaming for a few minutes until the hair dries again. Don't remove the net for a second steaming is to come. When the hair seems dry, repeat the steaming process and then let it dry again.

Be sure the hair is thoroughly dry before removing the combs.

When properly done you will find that your hair has a lovely soft wave and one that has no traces of the ridges and teeth marks that frequently are left from such combs when the wave is set in wet hair and then dried.

Corporations Not Exemplary; Gloom Lifting

Herbert Swope Raises a Question and Shows Shelves Empty

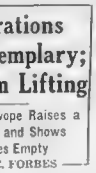
By B. C. FORBES

New York, Oct. 31—Herbert Bayard Swope, former editor of the New York World and a successful man of affairs—whose brother, Gerard Swope, is president of General Electric—writes:

"I am wondering if your occasional strictures about business and its failure to show initiative and courage are wholly sound. Isn't it possible that the overcaution is to be found lower down, among the smaller business men? Since one illustration is worth a hundred definitions, let me illustrate:

"Recently I needed some new tires for my Ford station wagon. The chief Ford dealer in the large and important North Shore village near which I live on Long Island had none of the better grade tires in stock. His wholesale distributor had only three. It took me one week to get those three, and I had to wait another week for the fourth. Ford cars and supplies are staple.

"From this wouldn't you say the Hub, fellow was rather timid at fault than the big fellow? After all, the manufacturer has enough rubber and enough cotton to keep immediately available a full supply of tires. It is the retailer who won't stock up."



B. C. Forbes

* * *

In my opinion, some of our very large industrial corporations were the very worst offenders in shaking right and left when the stock panic struck the country. The nervousness frequently manifested by some executives of huge corporations was aggravated by their own stock market losses.

If President Hoover's committee had investigated the extent of the laying off of workers and scattered men as well as the curtailment of jobs for rank and file, of advertising contracts by large corporations, the facts, I think, would have brought not a little censure on the heads of our so-called business statesmen and would have disclosed, Mr. Swope's idea that "overcaution" was most pronounced among smaller business men.

* * *

Industrial corporations were among the first to do things calculated to precipitate grave recessions. Public utilities have on the best record. Most railroads also refrained from immediately becoming panicky. They went ahead with their construction and fixture programs and maintained their working forces. Still severe lay-offs in traffic compelled them to reduce their payrolls.

Our very largest banking institutions have not come through this year's ordeal with flying colors. Public sentiment towards those controlling our greatest banks has become distinctly condemnatory, notwithstanding that, when the Wall Street panic was raging, New York bankers kept money rates low and acted most reasonably. Since then, however, the public have looked in vain for aggressive constructive leadership from the men dominating the money supplies of the country.

* * *

Naturally, the wholesale slashing by corporations alarmed smaller business men and also the working classes of this country, and they began to pull in their horns. Manufacturers and merchants concentrated upon letting their stocks run down drastically, and workers, seeing how things were going, and noting how many fellow-workers were being dismissed, stopped spending.

In face of the conduct of those higher up, how could those lower down be expected to remain undisturbed?

* * *

What Mr. Swope relates about the scarcity of tires is exactly in line with what has been repeatedly emphasized here, namely that supplies of merchandise of every kind have become so meager as to hurt sales. Complaints on this score pour into this column.

A friend who moved his home was told by the radio dealer from whom he had purchased his instrument that he could not send a man to install it because he had let all but one service man go and the man was swamped with work. So my friend proceeded to rig up his own antenna and do the whole job himself.

* * *

Happily, the excessive pessimism which has gripped the country is at last beginning to pass. This important change in sentiment is being reflected not only in Wall Street but in an increasing number of other directions.

Those merchants and others who have carried cowardice to the extreme may have early occasion to regret their action. They may find that abundant supplies of merchandise are not stocked up waiting to be rushed to the hearts which ever they whistle.

NEW BANK HEAD GOT HIS NAME FROM COUNTY

By FRANK H. MELOON

President Terrell M. Ragan, president of the Continental Bank, will head Boston's newest bank, the result of the $31,000,000 merger of the Boston National and the Continental.

Formerly the Continental was known as the "Brotherhood." President Charles Ulin of the Boston National becomes chairman of the larger institution. The proposed merger will be voted on by stockholders December 1. Mr. Ragan is probably the only bank president who was named after a county. It's in Georgia. He saw fighting service in the World War.

With gasoline selling at Greater Boston prices in Ohio, they call it a "gas war." And the ends we prices marked up from the level of around 15 cents to the former prices of 19 and 22 cents a gallon.

"Poker faces" are numerous and envied at a certain stage of American evolution. We are told there were no poker faces in evidence when the Chicago Board of Trade heard the false report that a Canadian wheat pool was insolvent or when Wall and State streets received the rumor that a revolution was taking place in Germany. Truth is noted another difference between gambling and speculation.

* * *

The Western Union is innocently responsible for one big change of recent years in State st. Once the rumors were of the "underground" variety, traveling slowly. Today, with private wires busy between Wall st. and State st., a rumor has merely to be started in one city, the other to be heard almost immediately in both. It used to be facts, but now it is often rumors on which markets are made.

* * *

Capt. George A. Parker, registrar of automotive vehicles, announce that a two-month campaign for the inspection of brakes and lights has been concluded successfully. This campaign, by the way, embraced not Massachusetts alone but other New England states. It was on May 2, 1929, that this column stated:

"We are for making transportation as speedy as is consistent with safety, but not forgetting that safety is essential for the continuance of our present prosperity. Brakes that function properly are perhaps the most essential thing next to proper headlights. There is no doubt about steps being necessary to assure those who believe and act in 'safety first' that all automobilists are complying with these essential requirements.

"Use the brakes more and the horn less,' was one of former Registrar Frank Goodwin's outstanding slogans. And he meant brakes that work properly, not the 'collapsible' neglected variety. A general system of correct and frequent brake testing is needed."

* * *

Having offered the suggestion for the New England "safety" campaign" considerably more than a year before it was adopted, we are still of the opinion that emphasis should be laid on the frequent brake testing. Any automobile mechanic can adjust brakes so that they will be sure not to need readjustment after a few hundred miles of driving. The same holds true of lights, as easy evidence of which note the number of "one-eye" cars you can meet on the streets any evening, despite the fact that the "campaign" is only recently concluded.

Penn Bell's Profit Is $39.41 a Share

Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania reports for nine months ended Sept. 30 net of $7,882,596 after depreciation, federal taxes and charges, equivalent to $39.41 a share on 200,000 shares of $ per cent preferred against $8,096,267, or $44.02 a share on preferred in nine months of 1929. All the common stock is owned by American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

While the rumors growing out of nervousness continue to spread, gems of overhanging difficulties, the fundamental position of the market improves a good deal on balance. The further decline of $101,000,000 in brokerage loans reported by the Federal reserve, to the lowest total since June, 1928, is concrete evidence of this improvement.

The market continues dominated by the "selective selling" movement seeking out "soft spots." Investment demand exists, but is not hurried.

Christmas Bonus For Employes

Christmas bonuses will be few and far between in the financial districts this year. Bloomingdale's New York department store will distribute $40,000 among 3300 employes in Christmas bonuses the same basis as last year.

Commercial Solvents Corp. announce resumption of capacity operations Saturday. Plant has been on half schedule the past four months.

$6,000,000 Atchison Work Is Planned

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad authorizes expenditure of about $6,000,000 for new equipment. Contracts will be let about the first of the year.

American Ice Earnings Good

Earnings of American Ice in September were somewhat better than most of the optimistic predictions which were heard several weeks ago. Net after taxes and depreciation of $632,946 establish a new high record for the month and compared with $769,882 in the corresponding month last year, which had been the previous peak. As a result of the September showing the results for the nine months were in excess of the same time a year ago. The company was benefitted by favorable weather conditions.

Spiegel, May, Stern Earnings Estimates

In some quarter it is stated that Spiegel, May, Stern has been suffering from curtailment of public buying. The company does quite a large instalment business, according to those statements, and there have been estimates that for the current year a substantial deficit will be shown.

Chesapeake & Ohio Yield Attractive

Interests in railroad shares contend that Chesapeake & Ohio is selling on a fairly reasonable basis as compared with prospective earnings for the current year. They consider a yield of around 5% per cent on the issue as attractive in view of the good position of the road. Should controlling interests desire to increase their income they could do so through declaration of an extra dividend, although less talk is heard now of such action than a few months ago when the stock was prominently mentioned as one of those on which something special might be done.

Bethlehem Income in Quarter Lower

Bethlehem Steel Corporation for the quarter ended September 30, 1930 reports net income after all deductions including depreciation and taxes, of $3,783,425, equal, after preferred dividends, to 63 cents a share on the 4,200,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

This compares with $7,691,453 or $1.86 cents a share on the 3,600,000 shares outstanding in the corresponding period in 1929.

American Radiator Cut Surprises

Reduction in American Radiator's dividend came as quite a surprise to many in the financial district and is still a subject of considerable comment. The popular view had been that with indications of a turn for the better in that line of the building industry which would benefit the company and because of the strong financial position of American Radiator no change would be made in the payment.

In some quarters it is reported that the establishment of a $1 a share annual basis was in the nature of a compromise between interests who desired to maintain the previous rate and those who maintained that more drastic action should be taken at this time.

Radio Reaches Former Low

"Double-bottom," so significant to the chartist and no one else, was attained by Radio at 20, and an enormous buying order was reported at that level, with offering plentiful. It remains to be seen whether the stock will find its present level in the face of anticipated poor report for the third quarter.

Packard Holds With Dividend Cut

Packard Motors held firm in the face of the reduction in the dividend rate to 20 cents annually, the which basis the yield is still above 6 per cent.

Mergers in Oil Trade Expected

Unsettled conditions in the oil industry will force many of the smaller units in the industry to consolidate, according to important interests in the oil trade. Several of these consolidations are already being considered by some of the larger companies, but actual plans are being held in abeyance pending governmental sanction of the merger between Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum Oil. In oil circles, it is felt that the smaller companies can only survive the severe competition in the oil trade through consolidating.

United Corporation Bought on Scale

Recent action of United Corporation reflects the persistent scale-down accumulation that is taking place in that issue. As pointed out recently, the book value of United is slightly above the present value of the stock. This fact reflects the fact that the company has slightly increased its holdings in several of its utility properties during the recent weakness in these shares. Another factor responsible for the persistent accumulation noticeable in United is the fact that the company is rapidly developing properties already controlled by it. These operations, it is said, have been effected by a reduction in operating expenses, and interests close to the company feel that a further saving will be effected later on.

Briggs Sponsors Are Preparing

That more aggressive sponsorship is pending for Briggs Body was evident from the barrage of optimistic statements regarding this issue.

Exchange Closed Year Ago Today

A year ago today the Stock Exchange was closed because physical and mechanical facilities were so complexly disorganized as to make it impossible for clerical forces to handle the transactions that had clogged up the balancing of accounts for customers and between brokerage houses. The board also voted to close the Exchange the following day.

Use of high speedier tickers now installed might have averted the closings.

'Phone Earnings Show an Increase

No proof of depression appears in the fact that gross was attained of $97,496,000 for 103 telephone companies in August, against $96,270,000 a year before.

Good Gold Mine Aid to Newmont

The safest kind of asset in these days of deflation is a good gold mine. Seventeen years ago Newmont Mining became interested in a western gold prospect. It now is producing and helping toward the $4 annual dividend, with indications that the trend of earnings will continue upward.

Jones & Laughlin Is Well Managed

Jones & Laughlin is one of the oldest steel companies and one of the best managed. It has a habit of making comparatively good showings in periods of depression. Deficits are almost unknown to it. For nine months it was able to show a surplus of $3,566,000 after payment of $3,062,480 on preferred and $2,161,200 on common. For the third quarter it earned dividends by a margin of $103,760, which is a good showing in that period of low operations and poor prices. Incidentally, Jones & Laughlin earned its preferred dividend almost three times over in nine months. The stock sells around $122, pays $7 and is entitled to 170.

Consumer Buying Shows Increase

The most favorable development is the greater information of consumers to add to inventories. That isn't a patriotic move by any means. They are buying because they have permitted inventories to reach a bed rock level.

PRICES LOWER IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Prices were worked lower in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Losses ranged from fractions to 4 points or more. Gillette and General Capital sold at new 1930 lows.

Boston & Maine A and C stamped lowered around 4 points. Edison dipped 3 points. General Electric dropped 1¾, Penn. R R eased a point and Boston & Albany was down 2 points.

Point or more recessions were recorded for Anaconda, Boston Elevated second preferred and Westinghouse. Minor losses were shown by United Founders, United Shoe and New Haven.

Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. had third quarter net equal to 4 cents a share before depletion, against 7 cents a share in the preceding quarter, or $1.20 a share in the third quarter of 1929.

Yale & Town Manufacturing Co. for the quarter ended Sept. 30 reported net loss of $9063, against net income of $.58 644 in the like quarter of 1929.

First National Old Colony Corp has reduced rates on 150 and 180 day bankers' acceptances by ¼ of 1 per cent, new rates being 2¾ per cent to 2½ per cent.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

State Street hears the coppers are in a more favorable position than has been the case for many months. There has been a rise in one of those equities for the first time in months. The report is current that the output of copper is to be reduced, at which time it is expected an agreement will be reached to avoid further price cutting.

* * *

International Nickel meets favorable buying on a scale down from $18, at which figure a broker reported an order for about 10,000 shares. Some observers say the company charges all production expenses to copper and platinum. Such a system would mean that their output is marketed free of production cost.

* * *

Conservatives, however, are willing to await further developments before making commitments. They caution against following the rallies in the copper until positive improvement has been seen in the price of the red metal. They say they will then make purchases of the low cost producers such as Anaconda, Nickel, etc., who can show a fair profit on 12-cent copper.

* * *

Warren Brothers has been bought by one Boston broker around 33¾ to 34, it is reported that the company will soon announce the securing of one of the largest contracts in its history. He understands that negotiations are well past the conversation stage.

* * *

While the action of American Radiator in reducing the dividend was somewhat of a surprise to State Street, according to one broker, there is a large buying order on the book at $20. He expects the company to receive a good share of business through any 1931 pick-up in construction.

New York Dock Co. Report Is Issued

New York Dock Co. for quarter ended September 30 reports net income of $171,879 after taxes, interest, etc, against $177,104 in September quarter of 1929. Nine months' net was $522,264, against $602,868.

September quarter's net income is equal, after dividend requirements on the 5 per cent preferred to 67 cents a share on the 70,000 shares of common, against 74 cents a share in the third quarter of 1929.

Columbia Trust Company

CURB MARKET ENTERS NEW LOW GROUND

New York, Oct. 31—The Curb Market settled down to a lower level of prices in another generally reactionary session today, with a number of issues sagging into new low ground for the year.

Commonwealth Edison broke almost 5 points, but active leaders such as Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, Brazilian Traction, Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson Power, United Gas and United Light & Power, gave way but moderately.

Cities Service declined ¼. Oils were particularly weak with Gulf and Standard of Nebraska forced into new low territory. Humble, Standard of Indiana and Vacuum closed fractionally above their previous low points at the close.

Investment trusts dipped moderately, despite the presence of some advances in relatively inactive holding company shares. In the more active issues Insull Utility Investing dropped 1⅜ and nominal recessions were noted in Goldman Sachs, United Founders, and Central States Electric.

Industrial shares were sharply lower particularly those which had failed to make an appearance during previous reactionary days. Celanese preferred, for example, broke 15½ and losses up to 5 points were in evidence throughout the list.

Bank Clearings of Week Are Lowered

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Dun's weekly compilation of bank clearings shows an aggregate of $7,996,946,000, a decrease of 61.8 per cent from a year ago. Outside of New York there was a decrease of 57.8 per cent.

Good Yield Assured

Investors Realize an Immediate and a Continuing Benefit

Impatience and too much patience are both apt to be disastrous to the man or woman who attempts to invest saved dollars to maximum advantage. Some try to "double their money overnight"—with dire results all too frequently. Others entirely overlook the factor of current income (which may be 3%, 2%, or even less) in the expectation that eventually they will have opportunity to sell their security at enough more than its cost to compensate them handsomely for the long wait.

The more discerning and cautious investor need take neither the one course nor the other. Rather, having first satisfied himself as to its intrinsic soundness, he will insist on an investment that yields him a good return from the start — and assures him an uninterruptedly good return.

NEW LOWS ARE RECORDED IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Oct. 31—Selling pressure was continuous almost all day on the New York Stock Exchange today. Numerous new lows were recorded as the market sank for the third consecutive session.

VOLUME INCREASES

The trading was dull until the final hour, when volume increased. In the last few minutes there was some short covering, which lifted numerous stocks a point or so above their lows for the day.

U. S. Steel sold down to 143¾, within a minor fraction of the year's low, but rallied to 144, off 2% for the day.

Radio was off 2 to a new low at 18¾, breaking the level of 20 at which it had been stoutly supported.

Chemicals were weak, with Allied Chemical tumbling 2¾ to a new bottom at 194½, from which it rallied over 2 points.

Issues off 2 to 3 or more included du Pont, American Can, Bethlehem, Sears, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Atchison, American Tobacco "B" and Union Carbide.

Coca-Cola showed continued weakness, adding 5 to its losses of previous session, then rallied 3 from its low for the day.

Among those off to new bottoms for 1930 or longer were Bethlehem Steel, American Metal, Canada Dry, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Crucible, Auburn Auto and Radio Corp.

Other shares reaching new bottom levels included du Pont, Kennecott, Childs, Gillette and General American Tank.

BETHLEHEM EARNINGS

The drop in Bethlehem was in response to its quarterly earnings statement, showing net of 63 cents a share.

It regained much of its loss as shorts covered later, however.

Earnings were about in line with expectations, as it has been widely believed that the corporation had earned less than half its quarterly dividend requirements. President Grace's statement that improvement was not yet in sight, only confirmed current analyses by steel trade publications.

The steel industry in these shack times has large overhead charges in the maintenance of its vastly expanded and modernized plant, the President-Emeritus of U. S. Steel, in an address at Pinehurst, said the millions spent in modernization would be justified by future demands upon this basic industry, save in those lines where capacity had outstripped potential demand for some years to come.

RETAIL TRADE STEADY

The weekly mercantile reviews stated that retail trade appeared to be maintaining its volume of earlier in the month, although wholesale trade and manufacturing seemed a trifle quieter.

Call money held at 2 per cent, having set a record by remaining stationary at that level for the entire month. Although call money has averaged lower, as recently as February, 1915, this seems to be the first time the official rate has remained unchanged for so long a period.

Last October the average was above 6 per cent. The official rate was cut somewhat artificially, however, with outside offerings of funds as low as 1 per cent.

The further decline of $101,600,000 in the weekly brokerage loan left the total to the lowest since 1928, in which year the tabulation was started. The New York banks' loans to brokers for their own account dropped $80,000,000, and a decrease in all security loans of only $50,000,000, indicating an increase of $30,000,000 in loans secured by others than brokers.

Some observers interpret an increase in these loans as showing that there has been accumulation of stocks by strong interests. A gain of $120,000,000 in the New York banks loans under the classification "all other loans" was a little puzzling, as there had been little increase in the compilation of loans was started.

The source of the principal inquiry for funds is believed to be paying institutions and within the past few days there have been some signs of greater activity in that quarter.

The weekly statement of the condition of New York City member banks reported purchases of $72,000,000 in bonds other than governments.

Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad, said that conservative elements now see word that will bring about a gradual and well sustained recovery in business before many months. The Erie, he said, is spending $30,000,000 this year for improvements, new equipment and maintenance, and, despite the heavy drop in volume of traffic, has decided to maintain this expenditure to assist in relieving unemployment.

National Biscuit reported an increase over 1929 for the third quarter.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Oct. 31—Cotton futures today opened quiet, 6 to 12 points lower; December, 11.13; January, 11.20. New contracts—December, 11.13-14; January, 11.20; March, 11.32-33; May, 11.73-75; July, 11.93. Spot, quiet; middling, 11.20.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Oct. 31—Grains closed lower today. Wheat was off ¾ to 1c, corn 1¾ to 2c and oats 1¼ to 1⅝c. Rye was down ⅝ to 7c.

Television Tests in Broadway Theaters

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Problems of television transmission are being tackled by the National Broadcasting Company.

Tests now under way in the Broadway theatrical district are dealing solely with attempts to learn what is to be expected in sight sending.

A Times Sq., theater studio is being used as a laboratory. The purpose is to determine through test, installed throughout the Metropolitan area, what happens to picture signals when they are put into the air.

Art Museum Displays Rare Embroideries

To the current exhibitions at the Museum of Fine Arts of contemporary cotton textiles and of 18th century French designs, another exhibition is being shown this week. This third display is of Mediterranean embroideries. An exhibition, opening next Tuesday in the special exhibition galleries of the new wing, will consist largely of embroideries from the museum collection supplemented by loans from Mrs. L. D. Caskey and Mrs. William F. Wharton.

Hurley for Treasurer

He Is Well Qualified

Charles F. Hurley of Cambridge, the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, should be elected. His experience in business affairs is abundant. That alone should be sufficient for the voters to accept him. He is an able representative of the younger element in his party, an element which is entitled to recognition.

But beyond those important points there is another urgent reason why he should be chosen by the voters next Tuesday. His election would mean the defeat of Fred J. Burrell, his Republican opponent, which is a matter of real concern to the Commonwealth.

Voters of both parties should unite to make sure that Burrell is beaten. With a good man, well qualified for the position, Mr. Hurley, as Burrell's opponent, there should be no question as to the outcome.

Mayor Curley's Plan

A Billion Well Spent

It remained for the Mayor of a city to propose to the Administration at Washington the most comprehensive, attractive and meritorious plan yet devised for the stimulation of business and the revival of employment.

Mayor Curley's recommendation of a billion-dollar project for development of the Mississippi River will strike the imagination of the American public even if it fails to fire the courage of those timorous souls in government who vanished into the storm cellars, closed the trap-doors and still await some miraculous act of a generous Providence to repair the damage and to restore public confidence.

Employment, flood-relief, dronth-control, improved transportation, cheaper electric power for industry and the householder, cheaper water rates for industry and agriculture—all these are SOME of the benefits that would flow from the project which Mayor Curley proposes to Washington.

A new inland empire of industry would be created. Agriculture, comprising one-third the industry of the Nation, would be helped out of its long period of distress. Without the prosperity of the farmer the country as a whole cannot derive its fullest degree of prosperity. The manufactured products of American labor would be enabled better to compete in Latin-America, which must be the future goal of America's export trade and which is now being repenetrated by the European Nations that formerly held the balance of trade there.

The benefits are so massive and so obvious that the mere enumeration of them commands the prosecution of the project without delay. This is no time to be talking in terms of pennies and piecemeal development. If the country has any leadership this proposal offers the opportunity for it to be demonstrated.

Too Logical

To Be Adopted

Persistent rumors from Washington say that the Wickersham commission, when it gets around to reporting, will recommend the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

These rumors are not confirmed. Neither are they denied.

Other rumors that the White House favored 4 per cent beer sent wheat prices up on the Chicago Board of Trade. The White House later said the rumors were silly, and wheat went down.

The Government is disturbed about the price of wheat, the business depression and unemployment. It has just announced a widespread program to help everybody—the farmer, the business man, the worker out of a job.

It would help everybody by promptly enacting a measure to legalize—let us say—three per cent beer. That would dispose of surplus grain, and would give immediate employment to a quarter of a million persons.

Such a measure is too logical, however, to be adopted.

Miss Sears Shows Way

Other Social Leaders Might Follow Her

In this interesting and very successful campaign to secure work for unemployed men and women, the Boston Evening American had resolved not to single out for personal compliment any of the hundreds of generous and compassionate people who have responded so nobly.

But we are going to mention Miss Eleonora Sears, for a reason that is quite obvious.

Miss Sears is a lady of fine lineage and of social and financial prestige. She would be, by environment, a member of that smugly-complacent group, well-equipped with material riches and unconcerned in the serious problem of those who must have work if they are to live.

They are the ones who have the most power to revive business and restore employment. Miss Sears, by her own example, has shown them their REAL obligation to society. They, as she, should respond to it.

Back for More

Lipton Will Challenge Again

Sir Thomas Lipton, the indefatigable, will build another Shamrock and challenge again for the America's Cup in 1932.

Sir Thomas will then be 82. Already he has failed five times to capture the elusive mug. But as he explains:

"We Scotch-Irish don't easily give up."

Few will dissent from that observation. And, incidentally, Sir Thomas will be remembered for generations after he is dead, for the simple reason that he never knew when he was licked.

If he had won the cup after one or two attempts, none would have remembered him. But as the world's best loser, he has achieved his niche in history.

To win is pleasant. To take defeat without wincing, and to come back for more, makes mere victory look cheap and tawdry by comparison.

As to Horse-Swapping

Congressman Robert Luce, Republican, advises us not to swap horses while crossing the stream. Stream! It seems more like a flood, with the horse's fest off the ground and nobody to guide him.

NOW PULL TOGETHER

By NELSON HARDING

The lifeboat has at last been launched
And headed for the wreck,
Where many perilously cling
And crowd the shattered deck.

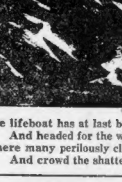
The boat's crew soon can reach the hulk
In spite of wind and weather,
And make a skillful rescue there
If all will pull together.

Listen, World! About Dogs

By ELSIE ROBINSON

The Weaker (?) Sex

IF YOU love dogs . . . and you can get right out of this column if you don't . . . read Mazo de la Roche's "Portrait of a Dog." It is, I believe, the most moving story of a small wagging creature that has ever been written. Very simply her mistress speaks about her—as all fine things should be spoken. But through the quiet words you hear little Argyle Banty's delighted yelps—see her tiny, Scottie body hurling itself through a joyful world—catch, quite plainly, the thumping of her gallant little heart breasting adventure, until she went grinning down to the strangest and darkest adventure of all.



Elsie Robinson

Here is the story of a dog—and, I suspect, something more. Is it the story of all feminine hearts? Of that sex which is supposed to be so soft and timid but is, in secret truth, both roistering and ruthless? For Argyle was feminine from the inquisitive tip of her ingratiating nose to the tantalizing tilt of her triumphant tail and—as is the wont of women!—she led poor Hamish, who by rights should have been her lord and master, the very devil of a life. Listen—

"These differences of male and female! Looking back over that bright-eyed, quick-breathing procession, I believe that the bitch showed greater endurance, great adaptability, and, I hate to say it—greater greed than the dog. A sense of self-preservation, preservation of her unborn young, is innate in her. The male is more wistful, more flighty, and he seldom has her soul-searching gaze that goes straight to one's heart. The bitch usually has an adventurous, devil-may-care spirit. She is very sure of herself and her place in one's affections. I would not say that one is more loyal than the other, but the only dog I ever knew which died of a broken heart was an Irish terrier male that we had to send away from us one winter. . . . It needs the special charm of the female to make one forgive her some of the rascalities peculiar to her sex."

And, again, this all-too-familiar domestic scene which should cause divers henpecked gents to utter wild, wry, wools of sympathy.

"You still harried him (Hamish) when you were in the mood," declares Miss de la Roche, addressing the adored but designing Argyle. "There were times when you denied him the dignity of his own chair. You would rush at him without warning, uttering a sudden, complaining scream that made him leap over the arm of the chair in panic.

"He would retire to a corner, glowering, while you would hop into his place and set about licking your paws until every ebony toenail shone. In the meantime he would establish himself, trembling, on the farthest chair. And, after a bit, something approaching serenity would appear in his eyes. Out of your deep, dark ones you were watching him. You waited for that moment when his nerves relaxed, then, with another scream, you were after him. And so every chair he sought in turn."

Reading the book, you'll snicker. Then you'll wonder—casting, if you are a male, a cautious, speculating eye upon the Missus. Are females really like that? They are, brother —they are! And how we've gotten by so long with our poor-dear-weak-little-woman act, baffles even me, who am—I admit—no mean slouch at it. For our stuff is so obvious. Or should be! No Dempsian fist ever concealed a fiercer wallop than Petite Polly pretty pout. No vitriol was ever deadlier than Meek Minnie's trembling tear. And "for ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain" consult any average man. Yet we've not only managed to keep up the deception of being spineless saints, but we get enthusiastic male co-operation in doing so!

However, it may not be so much of a mystery, after all. Maybe the men are on to us, all the time. Perhaps they know perfectly well that we "fem outsmarted and outlicked . . . BUT HOW DAST THEY ADMIT IT!

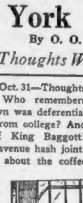
New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when a small town was deferential to a boy home from college? And what became of King Baggott? Sign in a Tenth avenue hash joint: "Don't complain about the coffee —you may be old and weak yourself some day." Ralph Barton's hat dip.



Will H. Hays, a Sullivan, Ind., boy, who made good in the city. A Sixth avenue candy store selling jawbreakers with caraway seed centers. Remember? And penny frying pans with candy egg and spoon. My favorite is still cocoanut flags. Murdock Pemberton, Brock's brother, and a new author out of Emporia.

Another time for another one of Mr. Schwab's prosperity interviews. All my life I've wanted to sneak up and trip some fellow carrying a huge mirror. And there's my chance. But the son-of-a-gun is as big as a house. Norman Hapgood is one of those long-faced intellectuals, too. Joe Williams' swagger.

The brilliantly lit Babe Ruth haberdashery on a Broadway corner. The sock repair shop for bachelors. Chubby speak-easy proprietors with mama complexes. And loud handkerchiefs. John Henry Mears, the globe trotter, resembles a small town grocer. Roy Howard's son Jack. Now a Yale man.

Something comical about those lumbering, shaggy sheep dogs. Lillian Russell brought the first one to America. Suave jewelry auctioneers who lash yokels with cheap sneers until they buy trash. I'll give George White six Sulka ties if he'll throw way those midget black bows.

* * *

What do hammock manufacturers do in the winter time? Everybody seems to be headed for Cuba. The blind piano tuner who charges $100. What became of that tiresome old Turk what's-his-name? Eddie Peabody can make a banjo smoke. Broadway's electric girl swinging under the clock.

Fanny Hurst's hats get redder, for goodness sakes. And Herbert Swope still rushes by as though catching a train. Beefsteak Charlie in person. And if you never got a load of his combination salad—you missed a bet. You'd never know it's front of the old Ansonia these days.

* * *

It has long been my conviction newspapers print too many heavy editorials—consequently few are read. I have a theory, too, an editorial should only be printed when an editor has something tremendously important to say. At such times it should be very brief, appearing on page one in display type.

* * *

If any publisher suddenly acquires the same idea about a New York column! I am always acting a fool and kidding this way. Just big talk.

* * *

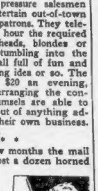
The new maritime white way in New York's harbor is worth seeing. The brilliant searchlight buoys with their delicous chimes guide incoming liners along the main channel from Ambrose Light to the rivers. The lights burn for five months without being refilled with acetylene.

* * *

In the so-called Sexy 70's are many apartment houses supplying "party girls" on short notice for dinners. High pressure salesmen who want to entertain out-of-town buyers are chief patrons. They telephone and in an hour the required number of red-heads, blondes or brunettes come tumbling into the appointed cafe—all full of fan and a cute blackmailing idea or so. The agencies charge $20 an evening, keeping $5 for arranging the contacts. If the damsels are able to cry the visitors out of anything additional that is their own business. Ladies must live.

* * *

In the past few months the mail has brought almost a dozen horned toads. And if you have never tried to give a horned toad away you have no idea of the problem. Incidentally if H. T. Webster will look in the right hand coat pocket of his new $140 autumn brown suit he will find one. Surprise, surprise!



Mr. Webster is the such-and-such who sent a 134-pound alligator, express charges collect, to this inoffensive chronicler from Florida many years ago. The score is not settled, but a horned toad in the coat pocket is a fair start. And our Getting Even Department is thinking up other ideas daily.

When You Buy—

A Chair

THE LUMBERJACK | THE MILL HAND

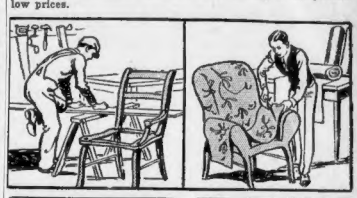
Wise Americans with a few dollars saved up are benefiting from the "business depression," so-called.

They are furnishing their houses with necessities or even luxuries, are outfitting themselves and their families with shoes, hats, clothes; are buying many things they have wanted, but previously couldn't afford.

You have heard that it is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

The ill wind of depression has been bad for many, but a boon to some.

Those who benefit by it are those who buy at the present low prices.



THE JOINER | THE UPHOLSTERER

Roughly speaking, their dollar today is worth TWO dollars a year ago.

Buying now, you help yourself, and, though possibly you don't realize it, you help many others.

It is especially pleasant to be able to help others.

It is especially pleasant when such help does not take the form of giving alms, but is merely good business.

These little sketches show you who are helped by that purchase.

The lumberjack, the mill hand, the joiner and fitter, the upholsterer, the salesman at the department store—and most important of all, YOURSELF.

IN THE STORE | IN THE HOME.

They get wages. You get the chair. And business gets a stimulant.

We can't show here ALL the people who benefit by each single purchase. Modern industry is too vast, its processes are too complicated, it employs too many people. Suffice it to say that your money and that of other buyers is distributed among thousands or millions of workers in every corner of the land.

And these, in turn, use it to buy from others—eventually, in fact, from YOU.

There are times to buy and times to sell.

The wise man buys when prices are down. Thus he profits. And—believe it or not—he does more to relieve unemployment than all the breadlines and soup kitchens in his city.
